Science and Ethics Bernard E. Rollin, 2006-03-27 In Science and Ethics Bernard Rollin examines the ideology that denies the relevance of ethics to science Providing an introduction to basic ethical concepts he discusses a variety of ethical issues that are relevant to science and how they are ignored to the detriment of both science and society These include research on human subjects animal research genetic engineering biotechnology cloning xenotransplantation and stem cell research Rollin also explores the ideological agnosticism that scientists have displayed regarding subjective experience in humans and animals and its pernicious effect on pain management Finally he articulates the implications of the ideological denial of ethics for the practice of science itself in terms of fraud plagiarism and data falsification In engaging prose and with philosophical sophistication Rollin cogently argues in favor of making education in ethics part and parcel of scientific training

Woman Eaton Stannard Barrett, 1819      The Heroine Eaton Stannard Barrett, 2021-05-18 Eaton Stannard Barrett's

The Heroine is a pioneering work of Gothic literature that delves into the turbulent intersection of romance and moral duty in the context of early 19th century societal norms The novel employs a satirical and often ironic tone blending elements of horror and melodrama to critique the conventions surrounding female heroism and virtue Through the lens of its complex characters and their emotional upheavals Barrett examines the intricate dynamics of love sacrifice and personal agency making the text a rich source of analysis for both literary scholars and enthusiasts alike Barrett a contemporary of major Romantic poets was acutely aware of the cultural constraints imposed on women during his time His keen insights into gender roles as well as his own experiences within the literary world inspired him to explore the challenges faced by women in their quests for autonomy and identity This background informs the novel's dynamic portrayal of its female protagonist who navigates societal expectations while grappling with her own desires and moral dilemmas For readers seeking a thought provoking and engaging exploration of gender and heroism The Heroine stands as a compelling testament to Barrett's innovative storytelling Its layered narrative and incisive critique of societal norms make it essential reading for those interested in the evolution of women's roles in literature and the ongoing discourse surrounding femininity and power

The Heroine Eaton Stannard Barrett, 1909      The Inauguration of Ernest Fox Nichols, D.Sc., LL.D., as President of Dartmouth College, October 14, 1909 Dartmouth College, 1909      Higher Education in America Derek Bok, 2015-03-22 A sweeping assessment of the state of higher education today from former Harvard president Derek Bok Higher Education in America is a landmark work a comprehensive and authoritative analysis of the current condition of our colleges and universities from former Harvard president Derek Bok one of the nation's most respected education experts Sweeping in scope this is a deeply informed and balanced assessment of the many strengths as well as the weaknesses of American higher education today At a time when colleges and universities have never been more important to the lives and opportunities of students or to the progress and prosperity of the nation Bok provides a thorough examination of the entire system public and private from community colleges and small liberal arts colleges to great universities with their research programs and their medical law and business schools Drawing on the most reliable studies and data he determines which criticisms of higher education are unfounded or exaggerated which are issues of genuine concern and what can be done to improve matters Some of the subjects considered are long standing such as debates over the undergraduate curriculum and concerns over rising college costs Others are more recent such as the rise of for profit institutions and massive open online courses MOOCs Additional topics include the quality of undergraduate education the stagnating levels of college graduation the problems of university governance the strengths and weaknesses of graduate and professional education the environment for research and the benefits and drawbacks of the pervasive competition among American colleges and universities Offering a rare survey and evaluation of American higher education as a whole this book provides a solid basis for a fresh public discussion about what the system is doing right what it needs to do better and how the next quarter century could be made a period of progress rather than decline      Victims and Villains in Vasari's Lives Andrew Ladis, 2015-12-01 Giorgio Vasari's The Lives of the Artists 1550-1568 has been a key subject of study for students of the Italian Renaissance over the hundreds of years since its publication It has maintained a powerful grip on the historical imagination and continues to influence the way scholars treat the Renaissance its artists and the entire intellectual enterprise of Western art Focusing on Vasari's literary and narrative achievements Andrew Ladis turns to Vasari's villains rather than his heroes to demonstrate the biographer's foremost interest in glorifying Michelangelo Approaching Lives on Vasari's terms as the grand story of the rebirth and triumph of art in Italy Ladis argues that Vasari was not a mere compiler of facts but a shrewd self-confident author aware of the power of metaphor With a literary reading of the text Ladis analyzes Vasari's motives and methods as an attempt to portray the great Michelangelo as a Christlike exemplum of ultimate light and goodness Through biographic details both real and invented Vasari presents all other artists as various players with varying degrees of heroic and villainous value Antiheroic characters such as Buffalmacco Lippi and Castagno Ladis argues serve to accentuate the contrasting greatness of Michelangelo

Ezra Pound and Margaret Cravens Ezra Pound, Margaret Cravens, Omar S. Pound, Robert E. Spoo, Hilda Doolittle, 1988 Ezra Pound met Margaret Cravens in Paris in 1910 during one of his most creative and formative periods. Margaret Cravens of Madison, Indiana, had come to Paris several years earlier to study piano and was drawn to the young Pound out of a shared interest in poetry and the arts. Their friendship began when she offered Pound generous financial support which continued unknown to anyone else until June 1912 when she committed suicide in Paris one year after her father's suicide in Indiana. Pound was deeply affected by her death as was the poet H.D. who had recently come to know her. Pound's letters to Cravens extensively annotated are published here for the first time. Her suicide note to him is also included. Ezra Pound and Margaret Cravens contains photographs and previously unpublished material by Pound and H.D. as well as an excerpt from H.D.'s autobiographical novel Asphodel in which Cravens figures prominently. This portrait of a friendship provides insight into the literary achievements of Pound and H.D. and tells the unknown story of Margaret Cravens's tragic life.

Basis for Animal Ethics Bernard E. Rollin, 2017-01-30 This book the culmination of forty years of theorizing about the moral status of animals explicates and justifies society's moral obligation to animals in terms of the commonsense metaphysics and ethics of Aristotle's concept of telos Rollin uses this concept to assert that humans have a responsibility to treat animals ethically Aristotle used the concept from the Greek word for end or purpose as the core explanatory concept for the world we live in We understand what an animal is by what it does This is the nature of an animal and helps us understand our obligations to animals

Making Doctors Simon Sinclair, 2020-08-07 Few outsiders realize that student illness is frequently and ironically a by product of medical training This unique study by a medical doctor and trained anthropologist debunks popular myths of expertise and authority which surround the medical establishment and asks provoking questions about the acquisition and dissemination of knowledge within the field In detailing all levels of basic training in a London medical school the author describes students official activities that is what they need to do to qualify as well as their unofficial ones such as their social life in the bar This insider's expos should prompt a serious reconsideration of abuses in a profession which has a critical influence over untold lives In particular it suggests that the structures and discourses of power need to be re examined in order to provide satisfactory answers to sensitive questions relating to gender and race the dialogue between doctor and patient and the mental stability of students under severe stress
