The first book in several years by
GERTRUDE STEIN

With an Introduction by Sherwood Anderson

Gertrude Stein transmits the rhythm of the spoken personality as directly as possible, using every form that she can invent to transmit the repeated story of everybody doing what, what they are doing. This new book, "Geography and Plays," is a book of sketches in which she gives some of such of her experiences. The play, "Lovers in Alamo," included in this volume gives her impression of those which she shared with the French army after the armistice. The last war work she was decorated by the French government with the medal of the Éclaireuse Française.

Gertrude Stein is still experimenting and still making her evaluation of people, groups, and ideas, ways of thinking something. Out of her early experiences her spring all modern writing.
