Bojesen-Koefoed, 2018 The exposed Jurassic succession in East and North East Greenland has long been presented as an analogue for equivalent deeply buried strata on the Norwegian conjugate shelf and offshore North East Greenland In particular the Upper Jurassic marine mudstone succession is often ascribed source rock potential as proven from coeval rocks on the Northwest European margin Previous outcrop investigations have not convincingly confirmed this potential however and three boreholes were drilled between 2008 and 2010 to provide full coverage of the Upper Jurassic Lower Cretaceous petroleum source rock succession in eastern Greenland The Blokely 1 borehole was drilled in 2008 in central Jameson Land to investigate the Middle Oxfordian Lower Volgian Hareelv Formation representing the lowermost part of the composite source rock succession The common aim of the collection of eight scientific papers in this bulletin introduced by an account of the technical and logistic challenges of the drilling operation is to document the significance of the Hareelv Formation in a petroleum geological context Papers on the biostratigraphy sedimentology provenance and diagnosis establish the framework and geological history of the succession while companion papers on the source rock potential burial and exhumation history and igneous intrusive activity in the region contribute to an improved understanding of the petroleum geology of the Jameson Land Basin Geological Map of Carlsberg Fjord - Fossilbjerget Area Denmark.
