Keller,2019-12-31 Ever since the groundbreaking work of George Williams W D Hamilton and Richard Dawkins evolutionary biologists have recognized that natural selection generally does not operate for the good of the group but rather for the good of lower level units such as the individual the cell even the gene One of the fundamental problems of biology is what keeps competition between these various levels of natural selection from destroying the common interests to be gained from cooperation In this volume twelve prominent scientists explore this question presenting a comprehensive survey of the current theoretical and empirical research in evolutionary biology Recent studies show that at many levels of biological organization mechanisms have evolved to prevent potential conflict in natural selection Editor Laurent Keller s aim in this book is to bring together leading researchers from all biological disciplines to outline these potential conflicts and discuss how they are resolved A multi level approach of this kind allows important insights into the evolution of life as well as bridging the long standing conceptual chasm between molecular and organismal biologists The chapters here follow a rigorous theoretical framework giving the book an overall synergy that is unique to multi authored books The contributors in addition to the editor are H Charles J Godfray Edward Allen Herre Dawn M Kitchen Egbert Giles Leigh Jr Catherine M Lessells Richard E Michod Leonard Nunney Craig Packer Andrew Pomiankowski H Kern Reeve John Maynard Smith and E rs Szathm ry Tropical Forest Ecology Egbert Giles Leigh,1999 In Tropical Forest Ecology Egbert G Leigh Jr one of the world s foremost tropical ecologists introduces readers to the tropical forest and describes the intricate web of interdependence among the great diversity of tropical plants and animals Focusing on the tropical forest of Barro Colorado Island Panama Leigh shows what Barro Colorado can tell us about other tropical forests and what tropical forests can tell us about Barro Colorado This book considers three essential questions for understanding the ecological organization of tropical forests How do they stay green with their abundance of herbivores Why do they have such a diversity of plants and animals And what role does mutualism play in the ecology of tropical forests Beautifully written and abundantly illustrated Tropical Forest Ecology will certainly appeal to a wide variety of scientists in the fields of evolution tropical biology botany zoology and natural history Nature Strange and Beautiful Egbert Giles Leigh, Jr.,2019-08-20 A beautifully written exploration of how cooperation shaped life on earth from its single celled beginnings to complex human societies In this rich wide ranging beautifully illustrated volume Egbert Leigh explores the results of billions of years of evolution at work Leigh who has spent five decades on Panama s Barro Colorado Island reflecting on the organization of various amazingly diverse tropical ecosystems now shows how selection on selfish genes gives rise to complex modes of cooperation and interdependence With the help of such artists as the celebrated nature photographer Christian Ziegler natural history illustrator Deborah Miriam Kaspari and Damond Kylo Leigh explains basic concepts of evolutionary biology ranging from life s single celled beginnings to the complex societies humans have formed today The book covers a range of topics focusing on adaptation competition mutualism heredity natural selection sexual selection genetics and language Leigh s reflections on evolution competition and cooperation show how the natural world becomes even more beautiful when viewed in the light of evolution

Paleognathous Birds from the Early Tertiary of the Northern Hemisphere Peter W. Houde,1988 The Social Regulation of Competition and Aggression in Animals M. Moynihan,1998 An acute observer of animal behavior Martin H Moynihan uses a wide array of comparative studies to detail the diversity mechanics and evolutionary origins of the means by which animals keep their aggression in check He follows birds primates and cephalopods in their natural settings analyzing not only such simple behaviors as habituation and retreat but also more intricate interactions such as redirection attacks excluding other animals from opportunities leaving scent marks and engaging in dominance relationships Moynihan demonstrates that signaling is fundamental to the evolution of strategies for regulating aggression and he describes how divergent social signals can accomplish similar ends as well as the reverse how homologous signals can play different roles depending on the particular circumstances of each social confrontation He also explores the ecological factors that lie behind the geographical distribution of some signalling patterns
