Great Britain, 1903 A new series embracing annual scientific results and certain administrative statistics      Early Belfast Raymond Gillespie, 2007 For most people nineteenth century Belfast is the very essence of an industrial city boasting as it did by 1900 the world's largest spinning mill the most productive shipyard the biggest ropeworks and tobacco factory This book looks beyond that world to reveal an earlier Belfast where the foundations for its later industrial prowess were laid It charts the town's remarkable growth from site to city from the first mentions of it as long ago as the seventh century through to the 13th century Anglo Norman settlement and Gaelic revival to the Plantation town of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries It re-traces not only the development of the early streets and their names but also the lives of those who walked and lived in them In doing so it recreates something of the thriving commercial settlement and port that came increasingly to dominate the life of the region it served Ulster in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries Using a unique series of maps together with archaeological and documentary evidence that has been expertly pieced together the book revolutionises our understanding of this the most Ulster of towns before the coming of industrialisation Just as importantly it reminds us that Belfast has always stood in the poet Derek Mahon's lyrical phrase a hill at the top of every street BOOK JACKET
