Commodities and Globalization Angelique Haugerud, Margaret Priscilla Stone, Peter D. Little, 2000 Today's growing fascination with flows of people commodities technology capital images and ideas across national and other boundaries poses fresh theoretical and methodological challenges to anthropology Commodities offer a particularly useful window on globalization because they unlike electronically conveyed capital transport cultural messages These ideological or symbolic transfers are of particular interest to economic anthropology This collection considers how conceptions and roles of commodities may change in response to widening spheres of economic interaction and exchange The essays in this volume are ordered under two themes Those included in the first section Commodities in a Globalizing Marketplace address historically and culturally defined variations in meanings and practices associated with commodities in globalizing markets In Part Two The Circulation and Revaluation of Commodities contributors analyze how commodity producers experiences are informed by colonial and post colonial history state directives in the marketplace and locations in dependent or marginalized regions The chapters all focus on the production process as it responds to is distorted by and increasingly is controlled by the determination of the value of those commodities outside a locality

Routledge Handbook of World-Systems Analysis Salvatore Babones, Christopher Chase-Dunn, 2012-05-31 World systems analysis has developed rapidly over the past thirty years Today's students and junior scholars come to world systems analysis as a well established approach spanning all of the social sciences The best world systems scholarship however is spread across multiple methodologies and more than half a dozen academic disciplines Aiming to crystallize forty years of progress and lay the groundwork for the continued development of the field the Handbook of World Systems Analysis is a comprehensive review of the state of the field of world systems analysis since its origins almost forty years ago The Handbook includes contributions from a global interdisciplinary group of more than eighty world systems scholars The authors include founders of the field mid career scholars and newly emerging voices Each one presents a snapshot of an area of world systems analysis as it exists today and presents a vision for the future The clear style and broad scope of the Handbook will make it essential reading for students and scholars of anthropology archaeology geography political science history sociology and development economics International Trade, Labor Relations, and Bargaining Power Matthew M. Fischer-Daly, 2023-04-28 International Trade Labor Relations and Bargaining Power International Strawberry Commodity Networks examines power in the commercial food system through the history of always available strawberries Applying an interdisciplinary approach to case studies on strawberry production and sales in Mexico Spain and the United States the author untangles the symbiotic relationships between the economic boom and labor strife in the sector By comparing workers struggles in the sector he develops a novel model of workplace bargaining power in which the process of dignity catalyzes change Since international trade in strawberries began three decades ago the sector's growth has paralleled the rise of retailer dominance of food sales Highlighting inequitable gains from the sales boom workers have organized mass strikes boycotts and pressure campaigns The divergent results ranged from ephemeral acknowledgments of workers concerns to the establishment of union collective bargaining and steadily improving working conditions Grounded in extensive research the book provides fresh analytical approaches to understanding the social dimensions of international trade and workplace bargaining power The book unpacks the relationship between poor working conditions and economic growth by applying a new method international commodity network analysis which builds on prior global supply chain approaches It explains differences in workers initiatives to improve employment conditions by identifying the process of dignity in the creation of solidarity Handbook on the Globalisation of Agriculture Guy M. Robinson, Doris A. Carson, 2015-06-29 This Handbook provides insights to the ways in which globalisation is affecting the whole agri food system from farms to the consumer It covers themes including the physical basis of agriculture the influence of trade policies the nature of globalis Structural Transformation and Agrarian Change in India Goran Djurfeldt, Srilata Sircar, 2016-10-04 The landlord and his emaciated labourer are symbolic of Indian agriculture However this relationship has now changed as large landowners have fallen from their superior position This volume explores how this emblematic pair is becoming a thing of the past Structural Transformation and Agrarian Change in India investigates whether family labour farms are gaining prominence as a consequence of the structural transformation of the economy The authors work alongside Weberian methodology of ideal types and develop different types of family farms among them family labour farms that rely mainly on family workers contrasted with capitalist farms that depend on hired labour Agriculture is shrinking as a part of the total GDP at the same time as agricultural labour is shrinking as part of the total labour force The changing agrarian structure is explored with the use of unique long term survey data and statistical models Results show that India is approaching farm structures that are typical of East and South East Asia with pluriactive smallholders as the norm This book successfully criticizes popular narratives about Indian agricultural development as well as simplistic evolutionist Marxist or neoclassical prognoses It is of great importance to those who study development economics development studies and South Asian economics

Corporate Crops Gabriela Pechlaner, 2012-12-01 Biotechnology crop production area increased from 1.7 million hectares to 148 million hectares worldwide between 1996 to 2010 While genetically modified food is a contentious issue the debates are usually limited to health and environmental concerns ignoring the broader questions of social control that arise when food production methods become corporate owned intellectual property Drawing on legal documents and dozens of interviews with farmers and other stakeholders Corporate Crops covers four case studies based around litigation between biotechnology corporations and farmers Pechlaner investigates the extent to which the proprietary aspects of biotechnologies from patents on seeds to a plethora of new rules and contractual obligations associated with the technologies are reorganizing crop production The lawsuits include patent infringement litigation launched by Monsanto against a Saskatchewan canola farmer who in turn claimed his crops had been involuntarily contaminated by the company's GM technology a class action application by two Saskatchewan organic canola farmers launched against Monsanto and Aventis later Bayer for the loss of their organic market due to contamination with GMOs and two cases in Mississippi in which Monsanto sued farmers for saving seeds containing its patented GM technology Pechlaner argues that well funded corporate lawyers have a decided advantage over independent farmers in the courts and in creating new forms of power and control in agricultural production Corporate Crops demonstrates the effects of this intersection between the courts and the fields where profits not just a food supply are reaped

Tin and Global Capitalism, 1850-2000 Mats Ingulstad, Andrew Perchard, Espen Storli, 2014-09-04 For most of the twentieth century tin was fundamental for both warfare and welfare The importance of tin is most powerfully represented by the tin can an invention which created a revolution in food preservation and helped feed both the armies of the great powers and the masses of the new urban society The trouble with tin was that economically viable deposits of the metal could only be found in a few regions of the world predominantly in the southern hemisphere while the main centers of consumption were in the industrialized north The tin trade was therefore a highly politically charged economy in which states and private enterprise competed and cooperated to assert control over deposits smelters and markets Tin provides a particularly telling illustration of how the interactions of business and governments shape the evolution of the global economic trade the tin industry has experienced extensive state intervention during times of war encompasses intense competition and cartelization and has seen industry centers both thrive and fail in the wake of decolonization The history of the international tin industry reveals the complex interactions and interdependencies between local actors and international networks decolonization and globalization as well as government foreign policies and entrepreneurial tactics By highlighting the global struggles for control and the constantly shifting economic geographical and political constellations within one specific industry this collection of essays brings the state back into business history and the firm into the history of international relations

Consuming Space Professor David Goodman, Professor Michael Redclift, Professor Michael K Goodman, 2012-11-28 An examination of the relationship between space place and consumption offers important insights into some of the most powerful forces constructing contemporary societies Space and place are made and remade through consumption Yet how do cultures of consumption discover space and how do they construct place This book addresses these questions by exploring the implications of conceptualizing consumption as a spatial increasingly global yet intensely localized activity The work develops integrative approaches that articulate the processes involved in the production and consumption of space and place The result is a varied engaging and innovative study of consumption and its role in structuring contemporary capitalist political economies

Confronting the Blue Revolution Saidul Islam, 2014-02-05 Like the Green Revolution of the 1960s a Blue Revolution has taken place in global aquaculture Geared towards quenching the appetite of privileged consumers in the global North it has come at a high price for the South ecological devastation displacement of rural subsistence farmers and labour exploitation The uncomfortable truth is that food security for affluent consumers depends on a foundation of social and ecological devastation in the producing countries In Confronting the Blue Revolution Md Saidul Islam uses the shrimp farming industry in Bangladesh and across the global South to show the social and environmental impact of industrialized aquaculture The book pushes us to reconsider our attitudes to consumption patterns in the developed world neoliberal environmental governance and the question of sustainability

Koch, 2019-02-22 Gender and Food A Critical Look at the Food System synthesizes existing theoretical and empirical research on food gender and intersectionality to offer students and scholars a framework from which to understand how gender is central to the production distribution and consumption of food

Asia and the Transformation of the World-System Ganesh K. Trichur, 2015-12-03 In this collaboratively authored book world system scholars critically synthesize Asia's re-emerging centrality despite the myriad financial crises that have punctuated the end of the U S dominated Cold War world order From different vantage points the authors review the turbulent landscape of the region that points toward a new Asian world order as well as contradictory symptoms and signals The text highlights the salience of Northeast Asia the resurgence of Russia and Eurasianism and the class gender and ecological implications of a conflict ridden regional ascent for the future of the North South divide and for the struggle between the spirit of Davos and the spirit of Porto Alegre

Food Systems and Health Sara Shostak, 2017-07-13 Volume 18 of Advances in Medical Sociology brings cutting edge sociological research to bear on these multiple dimensions of food systems and their impacts on individual and population health This volume highlights how food systems matter for health policy health politics the lived experiences and life chances of individuals and communities Political Ecology David Bell, Leesa Fawcett, Roger Keil, Peter Penz, 2005-08-18 Political Ecology addresses environmental issues which Innis was concerned with from a contemporary political economy perspective They explore a wide range of themes and issues including sustainability risk and regulation population growth planetary management impact of humanity on environment role of technology and communication Case studies provide further insight into issues such as industrial racism women and development and collective action by highlighting ethical and political questions and providing critical insights into the issues and debates in political ecology The Road Taken Sung Hee Ru, 2025-09-01 Traces China's transformations with a focus on China's incorporation process in the nineteenth century which help to grasp the historical origins of China's capitalism As Europe's colonial powers reached China in the nineteenth century they became so strong that China could no longer ignore them Given that the unprecedented geographical expansion of the European system undermined a China centered world order and brought unprecedented changes to Chinese society an intriguing question why and how the Chinese empire entered into the capitalist world economy has attracted increasing attention among historians historical sociologists and world systems researchers Yet there has been no comprehensive monograph touching on China's incorporation process into the capitalist world economy To rectify this The Road Taken investigates China's incorporation process Incorporation studies based on world systems analysis aims to illustrate the long term integration process of external arenas into the capitalist world economy Ru traces China's transformations with a focus on how incorporation process unfolded over the course of a century 1780s 1890s which represents a watershed era in the relations between China and the capitalist world Seafood Supply Chains Miriam Greenwood, 2019-01-16 This book provides a historical and analytical account of changes in the seafood supply chain in Britain from the mid twentieth century to the present looking at the impact of various types of governance The governance of marine fisheries has been a contested issue for decades with increasing anxieties about overfishing In tandem the rise of aquaculture fish and shellfish farming has driven another set of environmental concerns In the food system there have been scandals about safety failures and about fraud At the same time governments issue advice urging people to eat fish for its health benefits In the context of these problems and contradictions how have governments the food industry and ordinary consumers responded The author shows how different types of governance and regulation have been used to seek seafood sustainability and food safety and to communicate nutritional messages to the public and with what effects The book also presents a new model for understanding food chains which combines governance and power approaches with an emphasis on understanding the interests served and the resulting balance of public and private benefits This shows that the role of state regulation should have greater emphasis in governance and agri food analysis and that theories about supply chain functioning including the part played by major retailers and civil society should be modified by a more nuanced understanding of the role of standards and certification systems Although much of the focus is on the UK and Europe this book provides key lessons internationally for the governance of seafood and other agri food supply chains The book will be of interest to students of food policy and those working in the seafood industry or studying for connected qualifications and more widely to readers with an interest in seafood issues and problems Rice Francesca Bray, Peter A. Coclanis, Edda L. Fields-Black, Dagmar Schäfer, 2015-02-19 Rice is a first step toward a history of rice and its place in capitalism from global and comparative perspectives
