The Use of Hazard Analysis Critical Control Point (HACCP) Principles in Food Control World Health Organization, 1995 Application of HACCP for Distribution System Protection Kathy Martel, 2006

OBJECTIVES The purpose of this project was to evaluate the application of the Hazard Analysis Critical Control Point HACCP system a risk management tool to better protect water quality in distribution systems

BACKGROUND HACCP was first conceived in 1959 by the Pillsbury Company to improve food safety for NASA's manned space missions Since the 1980s HACCP has been widely adopted by the food and beverage industry worldwide where it forms an important part of their food safety plans Since the mid 1990s HACCP has been applied by a number of individual drinking water systems and has been incorporated into many drinking water regulatory requirements and guidelines around the globe

HIGHLIGHTS Project pilot studies illustrated that HACCP can be applied to water distribution systems but time and resource requirements were greater than anticipated Project case studies showed that most utilities that achieved HACCP certification had first implemented ISO 9001 and ISO 14001 or similar systems to gain management control of people and processes The case study utilities operated one integrated management system including the ISO systems as well as HACCP to avoid duplication of tasks reduce staff time and costs and improve process integration All case study utilities believed that overall the benefits of the HACCP system outweighed the costs
