Farming Practice in British Prehistory Roger Mercer, Roger J. Mercer, 1984 The Landscape and crops Wildscape to Landscape Endosure in pre historic Britain Early Agriculture in Scotland Agricultural tools Function and use slash and Burn in the Temperate European neolithic Deadstock and Livestock Reconstructing crop Husbandry practices from charred remanins of crops Animal Husbandry Aspects of cattle husbandry Livestock products Skins and fleeces Early manuring techniques The Farming of Prehistoric Britain P. J. Fowler, 1983-07-07 Emphasizing past gains in knowledge from experimental aerial and field archaeology Dr Fowler demonstrates how the application of archaeological approaches to agrarian history has made the subject central to our understanding of the prehistoric period Emphasizing past gains in knowledge from experimental aerial and field archaeology Dr Fowler demonstrates how the application of archaeological approaches to agrarian history has made the subject central to our understanding of the prehistoric period Food and Farming in Prehistoric Britain Paul Elliott , 2017-03-13 From spit roasting pig to hanging cream cheese from the rafters from baking roast pork under the ground in pits to cooking trout on wicker frames over an open fire cooking techniques in prehistoric Britain are ingenious and revealing There were no ovens and many vegetables and breeds of animal familiar to us today had not yet arrived In reconstructing some of these techniques and recipes the author has discovered a different world with a completely different approach to food This is native cuisine cooked in a manner that persisted through the Neolithic Bronze and Iron Ages This book first tells the story of prehistoric settlement and moves on to explore the hunting and foraging techniques of the Mesolithic After discussing the way in which the Britons farmed and what they grew the book moves into the roundhouse and the tools and utensils available The final half of the book examines the varied techniques used from covering fish in clay to baking meat underground spit roasting brewing mead boiling water with hot stones and so on All the techniques have been carried out by the author Prehistoric Farming in Europe Graeme Barker, 1985-07-11 Drawing upon his own extensive knowledge of European archaeology Graeme Barker has impressively integrated the full range of archaeological data to produce in this book a masterly account of prehistoric farming in Europe on a unique scale He makes use of modern archaeological techniques to reconstruct the lives of prehistoric farmers in remarkable detail Not only do we now have a vivid picture of the prehistoric farmyard but we know what animals were kept how they were fed and why they were bred Evidence for crops grown and techniques of cultivation and husbandry helps recreate the prehistoric landscape Even the social organisation that determined the use of resources and provided the crucial stimulus for agricultural change can be relived Graeme Barker develops his argument through analogies with the agricultural history of classical and medieval Europe and concludes that today's industrial farmers can learn much from the successes and failures of early European farming Neolithic Farming in Central Europe Amy Bogaard, 2004-09-16 Neolithic Farming in Central Europe examines the nature of the earliest crop cultivation a subject that illuminates the lives of Neolithic farming families and the day to day reality of the transition from hunting and gathering to farming Debate surrounding the nature of crop husbandry in Neolithic central Europe has focussed on the permanence of cultivation its intensity and its seasonality variables that carry different implications for Neolithic society Amy Bogaard reviews the archaeological evidence for four major competing models of Neolithic crop husbandry shifting cultivation extensive plough cultivation floodplain cultivation and intensive garden cultivation and evaluates charred crop and weed assemblages Her conclusions identify the most appropriate model of cultivation and highlight the consequences of these agricultural practices for our understanding of Neolithic societies in central Europe

The Birth of Neolithic Britain Julian Thomas, 2013-11-28 The beginning of the Neolithic in Britain is a topic of perennial interest in archaeology marking the end of a hunter gatherer way of life with the introduction of domesticated plants and animals pottery polished stone tools and a range of new kinds of monuments including earthen long barrows and megalithic tombs Every year numerous new articles are published on different aspects of the topic ranging from diet and subsistence economy to population movement architecture and seafaring Thomas offers a treatment that synthesizes all of this material presenting a coherent argument to explain the process of transition between the Mesolithic Neolithic periods Necessarily the developments in Britain are put into the context of broader debates about the origins of agriculture in Europe and the diversity of processes of change in different parts of the continent are explored These are followed by a historiographic treatment of debates on the transition in Britain Chapters cover the Mesolithic background processes of contact and interaction monumental architecture and timber halls portable artefacts and plants and animals The concluding argument is that developments in the economy and material culture must be understood as being related to fundamental social transformations

Agriculture and Industry in South-Eastern Roman Britain David Bird, 2016-12-31 The ancient counties surrounding the Weald in the SE corner of England have a strongly marked character of their own that has survived remarkably well in the face of ever increasing population pressure The area is however comparatively neglected in discussion of Roman Britain where it is often subsumed into a generalised treatment of the civilian part of Britannia that is based largely on other parts of the country This book aims to redress the balance The focus is particularly on Kent Surrey and Sussex account is taken of information from neighboring counties particularly when the difficult subsoils affect the availability of evidence An overview of the environment and a consideration of themes relevant to the South East as a whole accompany 14 papers covering the topics of rural settlement in each county crops querns and millstones animal exploitation salt production leatherworking the working of bone and similar materials the production of iron and iron objects non ferrous metalworking pottery production and the supply of tile to Roman London Agriculture and industry provides an up to date assessment of our knowledge of the southern hinterland of Roman London and an area that was particularly open to influences from the Continent

Digital atlas of traditional agricultural practices and food processing R.T.J. Cappers, 2016-05-09 The Digital atlas www.plantatlas.eu of traditional agricultural practices and food processing documents the various processes involved in the production of food from working the fields through to processing the crops for food fodder and other purposes The atlas aims to define and describe these various processes unambiguously by using a standardized vocabulary and by explicitly taking into account the intention behind each process Illustrated with more than 3 000 photographs and numerous films documenting 20 years of field observation in the Mediterranean area the Middle East and the Indian subcontinent the atlas also includes detailed case studies of the practices and processes involving grapes olives date palms barley and wheat Many of these processes are part of the intangible cultural heritage of agriculture that is now rapidly disappearing

Plants in Neolithic Britain and Beyond Andrew S. Fairbairn, 2000-12-01 Plant centred issues are fundamental in the definitions and explanations of the Neolithic as a phenomenon The meeting of the Neolithic Studies Group from which this volume developed aimed to provide a forum for the wide range of approaches now applied to Neolithic archaeobotany at site and landscape scales of resolution

Prehistory of Agriculture Patricia C. Anderson, 1999-07-01 The twenty eight contributors to this book show how experimental and ethnographic approaches are being used to shed new light on the process of domestication and harvesting techniques tools and technology in the period just before and just after the appearance of agriculture The book takes an explicitly comparative approach with chapters on SW Asia Europe Australia and Africa

The Origins and Spread of Domestic Plants in Southwest Asia and Europe Sue Colledge, James Conolly, 2016-06-16 In this major new volume leading scholars demonstrate the importance of archaeobotanical evidence in the understanding of the spread of agriculture in southwest Asia and Europe Whereas previous overviews have focused either on Europe or on southwest Asia this volume considers the transition from a pan regional perspective thus making a significant contribution to our understanding of the processes and dynamics in the transition to food production on both continents It will be relevant to

Hillman,2014-10-30 This book is one of a series of more than 20 volumes resulting from the World Archaeological Congress September 1986 attempting to bring together not only archaeologists and anthropologists from many parts of the world as well as academics from contingent disciplines but also non academics from a wide range of cultural backgrounds This volume develops a new approach to plant exploitation and early agriculture in a worldwide comparative context It modifies the conceptual dichotomy between hunter gatherers and farmers viewing human exploitation of plant resources as a global evolutionary process which incorporated the beginnings of cultivation and crop domestication The studies throughout the book come from a worldwide range of geographical contexts from the Andes to China and from Australia to the Upper Mid West of North America This work is of interest to anthropologists archaeologists botanists and geographers Originally published 1989 Ancient Plants and People Marco Madella,Carla Lancelotti,Manon Savard,2014-12-11 Ancient Plants and People is a timely discussion of the global perspectives on archaeobotany and the rich harvest of knowledge it yields Contributors examine the importance of plants to human culture over time and geographic regions and what it teaches of humans their culture and their landscapes Cliffs End Farm Isle of Thanet, Kent Jacqueline I. McKinley,Matt Leivers,Jörn Schuster,Peter Marshall,2015-02-05 Excavations at Cliffs End Farm Thanet Kent undertaken in 2004 5 uncovered a dense area of archaeological remains including Bronze Age barrows and enclosures and a large prehistoric mortuary feature as well as a small early 6th to late 7th century Anglo Saxon inhumation cemetery An extraordinary series of human and animal remains were recovered from the Late Bronze Age Middle Iron Age mortuary feature revealing a wealth of evidence for mortuary rites including exposure excarnation and curation The site seems to have been largely abandoned in the later Iron Age and very little Romano British activity was identified In the early 6th century a small inhumation cemetery was established Very little human bone survived within the 21 graves where the burial environment differed from that within the prehistoric mortuary feature but grave goods indicate females and males were buried here Richly furnished graves included that of a female buried with a necklace a pair of brooches and a purse as well as a male with a shield covering his face a knife and spearhead In the Middle Saxon period lines of pits possibly delineating boundaries were dug some of which contained large deposits of marine shells English Heritage funded an extensive programme of radiocarbon and isotope analyses which have produced some surprising results that shed new light on long distance contacts mobility and mortuary rites during later prehistory This volume presents the results of the investigations together with the scientific analyses human bone artefact and environmental reports Plants and People Alexandre Chevalier,Elena Marinova,Leonor Pena-Chocarro,2014-04-30 This first monograph in the EARTH series The dynamics of non industrial agriculture 8 000 years of resilience and innovation approaches the great variety of agricultural practices in human terms It focuses on the relationship between plants and people the complexity of agricultural processes and their organisation within particular communities and societies Collaborative European research among archaeologists archaeobotanists ethnographers historians and agronomists using a broad analytical scale of investigation seeks to establish new common ground for integrating different approaches By means of interdisciplinary examples this book showcases the relationship between people and plants across wide ranging and diverse spatial and temporal milieus including crop diversity the use of wild foodstuffs social context status and choices of food plants

Economic Zooarchaeology Peter Rowley-Conwy,Dale Serjeantson,Paul Halstead,2017-05-31 Economic archaeology is the study of how past peoples exploited animals and plants using as evidence the remains of those animals and plants The animal side is usually termed zooarchaeology the plant side archaeobotany What distinguishes them from other studies of ancient animals and plants is that their ultimate aim is to find out about human behaviour the animal and plant remains are a means to this end The 33 papers present a wide array of topics covering many areas of archaeological interest Aspects of method and theory animal bone identification human palaeopathology prehistoric animal utilisation in South America and the study of dog cemeteries are covered The long running controversy over the milking of animals and the use of dairy products by humans is discussed as is the ecological impact of hunting by farmers with studies from Serbia and Syria For Britain coverage extends from Mesolithic Star Carr via the origins of agriculture and the farmers of Lismore Fields through considerations of the Neolithic and Bronze Age Outside Britain papers discuss Neolithic subsistence in Cyprus and Croatia Iron Age society in Spain Medieval and post medieval animal utilisation in northern Russia and the claimed finding of a modern red deer skeleton in Egypt's Eastern Desert In exploring these themes this volume celebrates the life and work of Tony Legge zoo archaeologist and teacher
