J. Melendez-Torres, Emily

Warren, 2024-02-15 This book describes an innovative approach to the evaluation of complex health interventions assessing what interventions work how and for whom Rejecting the stalemate between trials and realist evaluation it draws on the best of both Randomised controlled trials and systematic reviews offer the least biased means of assessing intervention effects but tell us little scientifically about how interventions work Policy makers and practitioners are also not supported to decide which interventions are likely to achieve most benefits in their local contexts Realists use other forms of evaluation and evidence synthesis exploring how intervention mechanisms interact with context to generate outcomes But these approaches lack rigour in assessing causality This book proposes how realist evaluation methods may be incorporated within randomised controlled trials and systematic reviews This enables evaluations and evidence synthesis to benefit from the more nuanced questions posed within realist enquiry while maintaining rigour in assessing causality Promoting Young People's Sexual Health Roger Ingham, Peter Aggleton, 2006-09-27 Valuable contributions on different aspects of sexual and reproductive health among young people are presented in this book with a focus on developing country contexts Key discussions on issues relating to young people and their sexual activities are brought together in one volume exploring how these issues are affected by the wider contexts in which they live The interdisciplinary team of contributors examine the practical and ideological barriers that inhibit progress in the development of educational and service level improvement of young people's sexual health as well as presenting examples of efforts made to overcome such difficulties Promoting Young People's Sexual Health looks to the future proposing ways forward in terms of policy and legislative changes necessary for long term improvements in young people's sexual health Health Promotion in Practice Sherri Sheinfeld Gorin, Joan
