Natural Disasters and Individual Behaviour in Developing Countries Oliver Fiala, 2017-04-04 This study investigates the complex link between natural disasters individual behaviour in the form of an individual's risk taking propensity and level of trust and the demand for microinsurance Developing countries are particularly vulnerable to the impacts of natural hazards and climate change as they affect their development processes and set back poverty reduction efforts Using a unique data set for rural Cambodia based on a survey experimental games and a discrete choice experiment the study highlights the importance of perceptions expectations and psychological factors in decision making processes with substantial consequences for long term economic perspectives and poverty alleviation

Climate Change Adaptation and Social Resilience in the Sundarbans Anna O'Donnell, Quentin Wodon, 2015-03-24 Household vulnerability to weather shocks and changing climatic conditions has become a major concern in developing countries Yet the empirical evidence remains limited on the impact that changing environmental conditions have on households This book explores climate change adaptation using a social resilience approach The book is based on primary data from the Sundarbans a densely populated area located across parts of Bangladesh and India West Bengal which is highly vulnerable to extreme weather events and climate change The focus is on assessing how households are affected by cyclones whether they are able to cope with adapt to and recover from events and changes whether they are warned ahead of time whether they benefit from government safety nets and other social programs and finally whether they are driven to either temporary or permanent migration This assessment leads to a better understanding of how exposure to an area of climate change vulnerability and risk affects and shapes human responses

A Theoretical Analysis, Performance Evaluation, And Reform Solution Of The Health Care System In China Hong Sheng, Lin Zhang, Pu Qian, 2021-06-22 Medical expenditure has become a heavy burden on the public sector and the family system in many countries Expanding the coverage and reimbursement of medical insurance has become a common way to reduce the burden This book will elaborate on how medical insurance may increase the burden instead It explains why the existing medical insurance system results in increased medical costs where higher costs may offset the benefits of certainty brought by medical insurance forming the paradox of medical care insurance This assumption is verified by empirical evidence in China through a new method developed to find out the actual medical costs using two parameters ratio of self payment of medical insurance and the level of monopoly in the supply of medical services The book also describes the history the current situation and the reform of the health care system in China

Economic and Social Factors Affecting the Health of Older Adults Colette Joy Browning, Katherine Henrietta Leith, Shane Andrew Thomas, 2023-12-11 In 2020 over 1 billion of the world's population were over the age of 60 years old and it is expected to double by 2050 according to WHO. Due to the growing population of older adults there is a focus on healthy aging that will benefit the individuals and the wider communities as older adults will be able to support family members and partake in paid or voluntary work for a longer period of time. Currently a large number of older adults are unable to work increasing the likelihood of economic instability with fewer streams of income. Economic instability has been proven to have health impacts including declining mental wellbeing, malnutrition, and the inability to afford prescribed medications. Social isolation proves to be another important factor in the overall health of older adults. The CDC reports that poor social interactions have been linked to a higher risk of developing multiple serious medical conditions.

Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance, 1969 Identifies and describes specific government assistance opportunities such as loans, grants, counseling, and procurement contracts available under many agencies and programs.

Social, Technological and Health Innovation: Opportunities and Limitations for Social Policy, Health Policy, and Environmental Policy Andrzej Klimczuk, Magdalena Klimczuk-Kochańska, Jorge Felix, 2022-11-09 Abstract This Research Topic focuses on both strengths and weaknesses of social innovation, technological innovation, and health innovation that are increasingly recognized as crucial concepts related to the formulation of responses to the social, health, and environmental challenges. Goals of this Research Topic: 1 to identify and share the best recent practices and innovations related to social, environmental, and health policies; 2 to debate on relevant governance modes, management tools, as well as evaluation and impact assessment techniques; 3 to discuss dilemmas in the fields of management, financing, designing, implementing, testing, and maintaining the sustainability of innovative models of delivering social health and care services; and 4 to recognize and analyze social, technological, and health innovation that has emerged or has been scaled up to respond to crisis situations, for example, a pandemic of the COVID-19 coronavirus disease.

Agriculture and Rural Development in a Globalizing World Prabhu Pingali, Gershon Feder, 2017-05-08 Rapid structural transformation and urbanization are transforming agriculture and food production in rural areas across the world. This textbook provides a comprehensive review and assessment of the multi-faceted nature of agriculture and rural development, particularly in the developing world where the greatest challenges occur. It is designed around five thematic parts: Agricultural Intensification and Technical Change; Political Economy of Agricultural Policies; Community and Rural Institutions; Agriculture, Nutrition, and Health; and Future Relevance of International Institutions. Each chapter presents a detailed but accessible review of the literature on the specific topic and discusses the frontiers in research and institutional changes needed as societies adapt to the transformation processes. All authors are eminent scholars with international reputations who have been actively engaged in the contemporary debates around agricultural development and rural transformation.
