Health Promotion In The Workplace:

Health Promotion in the Workplace Michael Patterson O'Donnell, Jeffrey S. Harris, 1994 Health Promotion in the Workplace is written from a scholarly perspective that reflects the full knowledge of science in the field yet recognizes the constraints of practical application This comprehensive text covers the importance of health promotion programs the process of designing managing and evaluating programs the positive effects such programs can have on employees and the workplace the physical and emotional services these programs can offer and major issues such as factors affecting older workers and retirees and the emerging global perspective impacting the health promotion field Ideal as a text for students in undergraduate and graduate level health promotion programs or as a reference for managers and consultants in the health promotion and or human resource fields

Workplace Health Promotion, 2nd edition Danijela Gasevic, Leah Okenwa-Emegwa, 2023-01-09 Work related factors have implications for health and wellbeing Due to the amount of time spent at the workplace and the impact of work on health over an individual s life course the workplace has evolved as an important arena for population health promotion Risk factors within the physical and psychosocial working environment as well as inadequate organizational support are associated with increasing work related health problems which result in psychosocial and economic implications for the individual the family the organization and the society Recent estimates revealed an increasing level of sickness absence due to work related factors among others In recognition of the importance of worker health and a healthy working life but also in line with numerous occupational health goals many organisations set aside significant amounts of financial resources annually to promote work well being However studies have shown that despite this positive disposition among employers both employee participation and the impact of such programs remain minimal According to the Ottawa declaration for health promotion and the Luxembourg declaration for Workplace Health Promotion WHP WHP should be strategic It is recommended that WHP be conducted in a systematic and continuous process of needs analysis priority setting planning implementation and evaluation Unfortunately available studies show that many companies have policies currently in place but lack knowledge regarding proper implementation and evaluation The foregoing phenomenon raises questions regarding the level of knowledge of and attitudes towards WHP among people in management positions This Research Topic aims to address factors affecting workplace health promotion What does WHP mean for employers What forms of WHP packages exist Is there evaluation and follow up of such interventions What are the barriers and facilitators relating to the uptake of WHP interventions among employees Do people in relevant managerial positions possess adequate knowledge regarding WHP Manuscripts that explore factors crucial for WHP including individual and organizational level factors crucial for WHP are welcomed Manuscripts on barriers evidence based interventions best practices analysis of existing policy documents and those with a life course perspective etc are also welcomed Manuscripts can be of national international and global perspectives

Health Promotion Anders Hanson, 2007 Workplace Health Promotion A salutogenic approach A strategy for the future of business When company performance and economic sustainability depends on peoples participation wellbeing and health Read about how workplace health promotion contributes to this with a salutogenic approach This book takes the Ottawa Charter for Health Promotion one step further Salutogenesis Antonovsky helped us to understand the logic of health promotion by means of the continuum model which describes human health as something dynamic with movement and direction From a given point on the health continuum the line between the twin poles of health and illness different conditions or measures can act to improve the individual s health so that he or she is moved nearer towards the health pole This state of health can be superior both when measured in physiological terms and when considered subjectively in terms of the feeling of health experienced What is there in people s way of life or in them as persons which functions as a general factor of resistance to illness What can be done not only to see that health is preserved but that it can even be improved With the help of the idea of salutogenesis this strategy can be developed into an approach of its own which clearly differs from both curative and preventive health work
