Worlds Within Vilashini Cooppan, 2009-10-08 Worlds Within tracks the changing forms of novels and nations against a long postcolonial twentieth century. While globalization has sometimes been understood to supersede national borders, this book distances itself from before and after sequences in order to trace the intersection between national and global politics. Drawing from psychoanalytic and deconstructive accounts of identity, difference and desire, Worlds Within explores the making and unmaking of ideas of nation, globe, race and gender in the late imperialism of Joseph Conrad, the anticolonial nationalism and nascent Third Worldism of W. E. B. Du Bois and Frantz Fanon, and the decolonizing nationalisms and postcolonial cosmopolitanisms of novelistic descendants such as the Indian and Indo-Caribbean writers Salman Rushdie, Amitav Ghosh, V. S. Naipaul and David Dabydeen, the anglophone and francophone African writers Chinua Achebe, Ngugi wa Thiong'o, Assia Djebar and Tsitsi Dangaremba, and the Cuban postmodern novelist and theorist Severo Sarduy. Across this global field, national identity is subtended by transnational affiliations and expressed through diverse and intersecting literary forms.

Beyond the Roots Wiesław Krajka, 2005 This Volume Includes a collection of nineteen papers covering Conrad's writing career beginning with Almayer's Folly (1889) and concluding with The Rescue (1920). Written by scholars from eight different countries and three continents, the collection discusses a broad range of issues in the Conrad canon including ethics, politics and imperialism. While many of the papers discuss Heart of Darkness, the collection also consists of several comparative studies linking Conrad with other English authors including Milton Blake and Lawrence

Psychoanalysis and Contemporary Thought, 1994

Outside the Arch Catharine Rising, 1999-05-13 Outside the Arch reverses the convention of measuring literature against psychoanalysis by using the work of five modern writers to suggest modifications to Heinz Kohut's self psychology if it is to become the paradigm to replace Freudianism. Catharine Rising applies the positions taken by Conrad, Forster, Lawrence, Joyce and Woolf to point out Kohut's failure to provide an origin for the superego, his arguable faith in empathy as panacea, his stress on human dependency instead of autonomy, his demand for sympathetic self-objects to form and maintain the self, and his norm of a cohesive conscious self which undercuts the basis of human creativity. She proposes modifications, some of which have been discussed by followers of Kohut, but points out that no theory or paradigm solves all problems, though it may clarify some. In this case, self psychology provides a workable theory that undoes Freud's affronts that accounted for his own discoveries and those of Copernicus and Darwin. Rising argues that the theory of self psychology becomes much more pervasive when the works of the five writers assess the effects of the radical discoveries that proposed that man was not the center of the universe, that man was descended from apes, and that man lacks control over his own mind as Copernicus Darwin and Freud proposed     American Book Publishing Record ,1987
