

	Example 1	Example 2
Message	From: State Hospital Managing Director: The hospital has notified our clinic that they have cases of an aggressive influenza, and are in communications with the CDC regarding the situation.	From: State Hospitals Managing.
Question	From: Chief financial officer of State Hospitals: Our small clinic isn't really able to effectively isolate patients with possible aggressive influenza, are they? How will we avoid infection of other patients and staff? I'm worried about liability and think we need to move on this.	Some suspect influenza cases have been transported here from the Local Community Hospital. Infection Control is monitoring closely, and stocking up on N95 masks. We might want to consider our inventories system-wide, anticipating dispensing masks to patients and families of patients.
Decision 1	Get status update from clinic general manager	From: State Hospitals CEO Administrative Assistant.
Decision 2	Refer all suspect cases to our state hospital	I received a call from Purchasing. Per your standing requests, they are notifying us that our hospitals are dramatically requesting an increase in stocks of N95 masks, exam gloves, and other controls for airborne infection. Purchasing can't understand why. This is more than a little bump. What do you want me to do?
Decision 3	Have physician assistant call all patients and refer as needed	Restrict purchases to standard inventory levels
Decision 4	Close clinic	Allow purchases to proceed
Decision 5	Refer to MH Chief Med Officer	Ask for more information from purchasing
