

EVENT-DRIVEN BUSINESSES

How to handle the flow of event data

Event-driven business models power data-driven organizations

As data-driven strategies evolve, event-based business models influence organizations more. The models are built around the availability of real-time information on customers, payments, and supply chains. They help customers pay for the value they use—no more, no less. Suppliers can provide just-in-time inventories to retailers and even take over distribution.

The rise in streaming data use cases helps make these business models a reality, and lowers costs by minimizing exposure to risk and incidents of fraud. Innovated payment models built with shared resources, cross-sell/up-sell resources, and customer sentiment insights all
