Re-Mapping Archaeology Mark Gillings, Piraye Hacıgüzeller, Gary Lock, 2018-07-27 Maps have always been a fundamental tool in archaeological practice and their prominence and variety have increased along with a growing range of digital technologies used to collect visualise query and analyse spatial data However unlike in other disciplines the development of archaeological cartographical critique has been surprisingly slow a missed opportunity given that archaeology with its vast and multifaceted experience with space and maps can significantly contribute to the field of critical mapping Re mapping Archaeology thinks through cartographic challenges in archaeology and critiques the existing mapping traditions used in the social sciences and humanities especially since the 1990s It provides a unique archaeological perspective on cartographic theory and innovatively pulls together a wide range of mapping practices applicable to archaeology and other disciplines This volume will be suitable for undergraduate and postgraduate students as well as for established researchers in archaeology geography anthropology history landscape studies ethnology and sociology

Urban and Visual Culture in Contemporary Iran Pedram Dibazar, 2020-12-10 In Urban and Visual Culture in Contemporary Iran Pedram Dibazar argues that everyday life in Iran is a rich domain of social existence and cultural production Regular patterns of day to day practice in Iran are imbued with forms of expressivity that are unmarked and inconspicuous but have remarkable critical value for a cultural study of contemporary society Blended into the rhythms of everyday life are nonconformist modes of presence subtle in their visibility and non confrontational in their resistance to the established societal norms and structures This volume is about such everyday tactics and creativity as lived in space visualised in cultural forms and communicated through media Through its analysis of familiar everyday experiences Urban and Visual Culture in Contemporary Iran covers a wide range of ordinary practices such as walking driving shopping and doing or watching sports and spatial conditions such as streets cars rooftops shopping centres and stadiums It also explores a variety of cultural formations including film photography architecture literature visual arts television and digital media This book offers new ways of thinking about visual and urban cultures by highlighting a politics of everyday life that is conditioned on concerns over visibility and presence

Spatializing Marcuse Margath A. Walker, 2022-07-25 This fresh appraisal of philosopher Herbert Marcuse's work foregrounds the geographical aspects of one of the leading social and political theorists of the 20th century Margath A Walker considers how Marcusean philosophies might challenge the way we think about space and politics and create new sensibilities Applying them to contemporary geopolitics digital infrastructure and issues like resistance and immigration the book shows how social change has been stifled and how Marcuse's philosophies could provide the tools to overturn the status quo She demonstrates Marcuse's relevance to individuals and society and finds this important theorist of opposition can point the way to resisting oppressive forces within contemporary capitalism and professionals planners urban studies scholars and of course to those interested in the application of Lefebvre's work to real estate

The Routledge Handbook of Cartographic Humanities Tania Rossetto, Laura Lo Presti, 2024-06-03

The Routledge Handbook of Cartographic Humanities offers a vibrant exploration of the intersection and convergence between map studies and the humanities through the multifaceted traditions and inclinations from different disciplinary geographical and cultural contexts. With 42 chapters from leading scholars, this book provides an intellectual infrastructure to navigate core theories, critical concepts, phenomenologies, and ecologies of mapping, while also providing insights into exciting new directions for future scholarship. It is organised into seven parts. Part 1 moves from the depths of the human's map relation to the posthuman dimension from antiquity to the future of humanity, presenting a multidisciplinary perspective that bridges chronological distances, introspective instances, and social engagements. Part 2 draws on ancient archaeological, historical, and literary sources to consider the materialities and textures embedded in such texts. Fictional and non-fictional cartographies are explored, including layers of time, mobile historical phenomena, unmappable terrain features, and even animal perspectives. Part 3 examines maps and mappings from a medial perspective, offering theoretical insight into cartographic mediality as well as studies of its intermedial relations with other media. Part 4 explores how a cultural cartographic perspective can be productive in researching the digital as a human experience, considering the development of a cultural attentiveness to a wide range of map-related phenomena that interweave human subjectivities and nonhuman entities in a digital ecology. Part 5 addresses a range of issues and urgencies that have been and still are at the centre of critical cartographic thinking, from politics, inequalities, and discrimination. Part 6 considers the growing amount of literature and creative experimentation that involve mapping in practices of eliciting individual life histories, collective identities, and self-accounts. Part 7 examines the variety of ways in which we can think of maps in the public realm. This innovative and expansive Handbook will appeal to those in the fields of geography, art, philosophy, media, and visual studies, anthropology, history, digital humanities, and cultural studies, as well as industry professionals.
