Theories of the Making of European Union Foreign Policy Jan-Henrik Petermann, 2011-11 Essay from the year 2005 in the subject Politics International Politics Topic European Union London School of Economics Department of International Relations language English abstract In spite of the growing empirical significance of the European Union EU as a soft power scholars of International Relations IR have found it difficult to identify a single theoretical framework to explain the making of European Foreign Policy EFP The reasons for this apparent failure of rigorous theory building may be twofold On the one hand there is still much debate about what the EU the ontological object of inquiry actually is On the other hand many authors have taken a self critical attitude towards their own discipline emphasising that there is still a multiplicity of convictions as to how we can best theorise EFP Though detailed analyses of the specific pattern of the EU s external relations have indeed been marginalised for a long time it seems plausible to trace this lack of theoretical coherence back to the nature of EFP itself It is often argued that the EU is a political system sui generis a complex structure that is neither a state nor a non state actor and neither a conventional international organization nor an international regime In a similar vein some observers assert that the EU might most suitably be characterised as a hybrid political sphere that does not easily lend itself to classical Foreign Policy Analysis FPA In fact the major IR perspectives on EU foreign policy making neorealist neoliberal and constructivist appear to be largely incompatible in this respect Within each framework certain claims are made which effectively rule out or downgrade the validity and reliability of key premises in rival approaches Therefore the central question posed in this essay is Which theory best explains the making of EU foreign policy And if there is no single theoretical paradigm might there be any potential for an ana

Challenges of a Common Climate Policy Vanessa Aufenanger,2012 Policies and Policy Processes of the European Union Laurie Buonanno,Neill Nugent,2020-11-28 The dynamic and complex system of European Union policymaking is analysed in this new edition of a much praised textbook It offers the most integrated understanding of EU policy available Major approaches to policymaking including intergovernmentalism neofunctionalism supranationalism and critical theory are presented and supplemented with the authors own theoretical model federal integration to create a comprehensive evaluation of the EU s interests and actors in key policy domains The text covers the EU s main policy areas including those on the single market Economic and Monetary Union foreign policy migration and border control social and regional policies and the budget locating them in this wider theoretical framework As such it is the key introduction to the subject for students of European Politics at undergraduate and postgraduate levels New to this Edition Each chapter rewritten many extensively throughout New chapters on migration and border control competition policy and social and cohesion policies New illustrative material and many new examples Each chapter now includes a Guide to Further Reading Accompanying online resources for this title can be found at bloomsburyonlineresources.com policies and policy processes of the european union These resources are designed to support teaching and learning when using this textbook and are available at no extra cost European Republicanism Thilo Zimmermann,2019-11-12 This book presents current theories of European integration such as federalism neo functionalism and liberal intergovernmentalism with their strengths and weaknesses It is then argued that the combination of republican theory with public good theory the res publica of public goods could better explain European integration Public good theory has however to be adopted in order to make it applicable to European republicanism Finally the book demonstrates how this new framework can influence further academic debates such as on sovereignty and monetary integration externalities of a common European market and the driving force of European integration It is maintained that as the republican approach does not follow a pure economic logic there remains space for political considerations and motivations In this topical and interdisciplinary book the author combines many important strings of European integration theory history economics and political sciences which are clearly brought together into a coherent analytical discourse Its strength is the interdisciplinary interaction between politics and economics as well as theoretical and practical issues which are of high relevance for public debate in Europe This book will be of interest to scholars and students interested in economic integration as well as history and political philosophy Reflexive Governance in EU Equality Law Emma Lantschner,2021 This title explores the reality of equality and non discrimination within the EU It includes case studies from the two main directives in relation to equality laws and shows how they have been implemented This book also identifies indicators that facilitate compliance monitoring among Member States and candidate countries The SAGE Handbook of European Foreign Policy Knud Erik Jorgensen,Aasne Kalland Aarstad,Edith Drieskens,Katie Laatikainen,Ben Tonra,2015-04-30 During the last two decades the study of European foreign policy has experienced remarkable growth presumably reflecting a more significant international role of the European Union. The Union has significantly expanded its policy portfolio and though empty symbolic politics still exists the Union's international relations have become more substantial and its foreign policy more focused. European foreign policy has become a dynamic policy area being adapted to changing challenges and environments such as the Arab Spring, new emerging economies, powers, the crisis of multilateralism and much more. The SAGE Handbook of European Foreign Policy Two Volume set is a major reference work for Foreign Policy Programmes around the world. The Handbook is designed to be accessible to graduate and postgraduate students in a wide variety of disciplines across the humanities and social sciences. Both volumes are structured to address areas of critical concern to scholars at the cutting edge of all major dimensions of foreign policy. The volumes are composed of original chapters written specifically to the following themes: Research traditions and historical experience; Theoretical perspectives; EU actors; State actors; Societal actors; The politics of European foreign policy; Bilateral relations; Relations with multilateral institutions; Individual policies; Transnational challenges. The Handbook will be an essential reference for both advanced students and scholars.

Women and Leadership in the European Union Henriette Müller, Ingeborg Tömmel, 2022-03-03. This volume is the first comprehensive analysis of women's ascendance to leadership positions in the European Union as well as their performance in such positions. It provides a new theoretical and analytical framework capturing both positional and behavioural leadership and the specific hurdles that women encounter on their path to and when exercising leadership. The volume encompasses a detailed set of single and comparative case studies analyzing women's representation and performance in the core EU institutions and their individual pathways to and exercise of power in top level functions as well as comparative analyses regarding the position and behaviour of women in relation to men. Based on these individual studies the volume draws overarching conclusions about women's leadership in the EU. Regarding positional leadership women continue to be underrepresented in leadership positions; they more often hold less prestigious portfolios in such positions and manifold structural hurdles hamper their access to power. Furthermore huge variations exist across EU institutions with the intergovernmental bodies being the hardest to access. Regarding behavioural leadership women acting in powerful EU positions generally perform excellently. They successfully exercise a combined leadership style that integrates attributes of leadership considered to be masculine and feminine. This is not to argue that women per se are the better leaders. Yet more often than men they are exposed to stronger selection processes and their prevalent practice of a combined leadership style tends to best meet the requirements of modern democratic systems and particularly those of the highly fragmented EU.
