The Viability of the Rhetorical Tradition Richard Graff, Arthur E. Walzer, Janet M. Atwill, 2012-02-01 The Viability of the Rhetorical Tradition reconsiders the relationship between rhetorical theory practice and pedagogy Continuing the line of questioning begun in the 1980s contributors examine the duality of a rhetorical canon in determining if past practice can make us more or less able to address contemporary concerns Also examined is the role of tradition as a limiting or inspiring force rhetoric as a discipline rhetoric's contribution to interest in civic education and citizenship and the possibilities digital media offer to scholars of rhetoric

Cross-Linguistic Study of Acquired Reading Disorders Prathibha Karanth, 2012-12-06 The acquisition of reading the teaching of reading and the difficulties encountered have been of substantial interest to a wide range of researchers and practitioners for centuries Given the increasing centrality of literacy in modern life they are now of even greater interest to an ever widening base of professionals The study of the acquired reading disorders though in existence for over a century received enormous impetus with the publication of a seminal paper by Marshall and Newcombe in 1966 leading to neuropsychological model building of reading Over the last 30 years within the single case study design there has been extensive and exceedingly fine grained research on individuals with acquired disorders of reading in an attempt to establish the validity of these models of reading and the human brain In addition these models have had considerable influence on models of the acquisition of reading in children and their concomitant difficulties Much of this research has been in readers of the alphabetic scripts particularly the opaque English script During the last decade or so there has been increasing evidence particularly in research on reading acquisition that what is true of alphabetic scripts like English may not be universally true of all of the scripts of the world This has led to considerable research into the process of learning to read and write and on the factors affecting reading which are the touchstone of the models within broader cross linguistic and cross cultural perspectives

Multilingual Norms Madalena Cruz-Ferreira, 2010 Multilinguals are not multiple monolinguals Yet multilingual assessment proceeds through monolingual norms as if fair conclusions were possible in the absence of fair comparison In addition multilingualism concerns what people do with language not what languages do to people Yet research focus remains on multilinguals languages as if languages existed despite their users This book redresses these paradoxes Multilingual scholars teachers and speech language clinicians from Europe Asia Australia and the US contribute the first studies dedicated to multilingual norms those found in real life multilingual development assessment and use Readership includes educators clinicians decision makers and researchers interested in multilingualism The MIT Encyclopedia of Communication Disorders Raymond D. Kent, 2004 A major new reference work with entries covering the entire field of communication and speech disorders Communication Disorders in Spanish Speakers José G. Centeno, Raquel Teresa Anderson, Loraine K. Obler, 2007 This book bridges the gap in the literature on Hispanic individuals for student clinicians and professionals in Speech Language Pathology Speech Therapy It links empirical and theoretical bases to evidence based practices for child and adult Spanish users This volume provides both students and licensed professionals in speech language pathology much needed multidisciplinary bases to implement clinical services with Spanish speakers Researchers and practitioners from Speech Language Pathology Neurolinguistics Neuropsychology Education and Clinical Psychology provide theoretical and empirical grounds to develop evidence based clinical procedures for monolingual Spanish and bilingual Spanish English children and adults with communication disorders
