Specters of Paul Benjamin H. Dunning, 2011-02-07 The first Christians operated with a hierarchical model of sexual difference common to the ancient Mediterranean with women considered to be lesser versions of men Yet sexual difference was not completely stable as a conceptual category across the spectrum of formative Christian thinking Rather early Christians found ways to exercise theological creativity and to think differently from one another as they probed the enigma of sexually differentiated bodies In Specters of Paul Benjamin H Dunning explores this variety in second and third century Christian thought with particular attention to the ways the legacy of the apostle Paul fueled shaped and also constrained approaches to the issue Paul articulates his vision of what it means to be human primarily by situating human beings between two poles creation Adam and resurrection Christ But within this framework where does one place the figure of Eve and the difference that her female body represents Dunning demonstrates that this dilemma impacted a range of Christian thinkers in the centuries immediately following the apostle including Clement of Alexandria Irenaeus of Lyons Tertullian of Carthage and authors from the Nag Hammadi corpus While each of these thinkers attempts to give the difference of the feminine a coherent place within a Pauline typological framework Dunning shows that they all fail to deliver fully on the coherence that they promise Instead sexual difference haunts the Pauline discourse of identity and sameness as the difference that can be neither fully assimilated nor fully ejected a conclusion with important implications not only for early Christian history but also for feminist and queer philosophy and theology richness of contemporary knowledge about Islam and Muslim society Throughout the emphasis is upon the value of pluralistic approaches to Islam rather than condensing complexity with unifying concepts such as Orientalism Interdisciplinary in scope and organization the book cuts through the bewildering and seemingly anarchic diversity of contemporary knowledge about Islam and Muslim society The methodological difficulties and advantages of Western researchers focusing on Islam are fully documented The book demonstrates how gender age status and insider outsider status impacts upon research and inflects research findings

Tradition, Transmission, and Transformation from Second Temple Literature through Judaism and Christianity in Late Antiquity Menahem Kister, Hillel

Newman, Michael Segal, Ruth Clements, 2015-10-05 Many types of tradition and interpretation found in later Jewish and Christian writings trace their origins to the Second Temple period but their transmission and transformation followed different paths within the two religious communities For example while Christians often translated and transmitted discrete Second Temple texts rabbinic Judaism generally preserved earlier traditions integrated into new literary frameworks In both cases ancient traditions were often transformed to serve new purposes but continued to bear witness to their ancient roots Later compositions may even provide the key to clarifying obscurities in earlier texts The contributions in this volume explore the dynamics by which earlier texts and traditions were transmitted and transformed in these later bodies of literature and their attendant cultural contexts
