Brooklyn . . . Your Brooklyn Kevin J. Leddy, 2017-07-11 Let me just say that if you took two people who grew up in different neighborhoods in Brooklyn and sat them down in a room together they could talk for hours on end and basically share the same stories as if they grew up right next door to each other You see that is why I am writing this book The stories that I will share with you as you turn each page do not belong to me exclusively They are YOUR stories just as much as they are mine All you really have to do is change the names and faces and use your own neighborhood as their back drop and believe me they are yours I have included after each story an empty page for you to put your story on it so it will become Your Brooklyn and a journal to pass on to those who you wish to remember your story      Dulcimer Song Book Bud Ford, Donna Ford, 2010-10-07 Thirty eight all time favorite dulcimer solos penned artistically by Colorado's Bud and Donna Ford This text is a resource for any dulcimer player and an excellent supplement to any course of instruction It includes melody lines lyrics and chord symbols plus a solo arrangement of each song in standard notation and tablature      Expect the Unexpected C. R. Crane II, 2012 Here within these pages lie a silver bullet between the eyes A grim reminder clouds are only tombstones in the sky In the graveyard of memories there are ghosts that still fly Like vultures overhead waiting for dreams to die Haunted by the questions that have no reply Monuments with their stoney faces stand alone and cry The Grim Reaper and Cupid in their coffin lie Waiting to be resurrected by the readers who wonder why I expect the unexpected to catch you by surprise      The Pedagogy of Physical Science David Heywood, Joan Parker, 2009-12-16 In the science classroom there are some ideas that are as difficult for young students to grasp as they are for teachers to explain Forces electricity light and basic astronomy are all examples of conceptual domains that come into this category How should a teacher teach them The authors of this monograph reject the traditional separation of subject and pedagogic knowledge They believe that to develop effective teaching for meaningful learning in science we must identify how teachers themselves interpret difficult ideas in science and in particular what supports their own learning in coming to a professional understanding of how to teach science concepts to young children To do so they analyzed trainee and practising teachers responses to engaging with difficult ideas when learning science in higher education settings The text demonstrates how professional insight emerges as teachers identify the elements that supported their understanding during their own learning In this paradigm professional awareness derives from the practitioner interrogating their own learning and identifying implications for their teaching of science The book draws on a significant body of critically analysed empirical evidence collated and documented over a five year period involving large numbers of trainee and practising teachers It concludes that it is essential to problematize subject knowledge both for learner and teacher The book's theoretical perspective draws on the field of cognitive psychology in learning In particular the role of metacognition and cognitive conflict in learning are examined and subsequently applied in a range of contexts The work offers a unique and refreshing approach in addressing the important professional dimension of supporting teacher understanding of pedagogy and critically examines assumptions in contemporary debates about constructivism in
