Earth Feels Dana Luciano,2023-12-04 In How the Earth Feels Dana Luciano examines the impacts of the new science of geology on nineteenth century US culture Drawing on early geological writings Indigenous and settler accounts of earthquakes African American antislavery literature and other works Luciano reveals how geology catalyzed transformative conversations regarding the intersections between humans and the nonhuman world She shows that understanding the earth s history geologically involved confronting the dynamic nature of inorganic matter over vast spans of time challenging preconceived notions of human agency Nineteenth century Americans came to terms with these changes through a fusion of fact and imagination that Luciano calls geological fantasy Geological fantasy transformed the science into a sensory experience sponsoring affective and even erotic connections to the matter of the earth At the same time it was often used to justify accounts of evolution that posited a modern civilized and Anglo American whiteness as the pinnacle of human development By tracing geology's relationship with biopower Luciano illuminates how imagined connections with the earth shaped American dynamics of power race and colonization Geology in the Service of Man William George Farnsides, Oliver Meridith Boone Bulman, 1944 The Scientific Monthly James McKeen Cattell, 1917
