Cognitive Archaeology David Whitley, Johannes Loubser, Gavin Whitelaw, 2019-11-28 Cognitive Archaeology Mind Ethnography and the Past in South Africa and Beyond aims to interpret the social and cultural lives of the past in part by using ethnography to build informed models of past cultural and social systems and partly by using natural models to understand symbolism and belief How does an archaeologist interpret the past Which theories are relevant what kinds of data must be acquired and how can interpretations be derived One interpretive approach developed in southern Africa in the 1980s has been particularly successful even if still not widely known globally With an expressed commitment to scientific method it has resulted in deeper well tested understandings of belief ritual settlement patterns and social systems This volume brings together a series of papers that demonstrate and illustrate this approach to archaeological interpretation including contributions from North America Western Europe and sub Saharan Africa in the process highlighting innovative methodological and substantive research that improves our understanding of the human past Professional archaeological researchers would be the primary audience of this book Because of its theoretical and methodological emphasis it will also be relevant to method and theory courses and postgraduate students

San Spirituality David J. Lewis-Williams, D. G. Pearce, 2004-08-20 At the intersection between western culture and Africa we find the San people of the Kalahari desert Once called Bushmen the San have survived many characterizations_ from pre human animals by the early European colonials to aboriginal conservationists in perfect harmony with nature by recent New Age adherents Neither caricature does justice to the complex world view of the San Eminent anthropologists David Lewis Williams and David Pearce present instead a balanced view of the spiritual life of this much studied people examining the interplay of their cosmology myth ritual and art Integrating archaeological finds historical accounts ethnographic information and interpretation of rock art the authors discuss San cosmic geography the role of shamans and mind altering substances the ritual of the trance dance the legends reproduced on stone and other intriguing accounts of other worldly experiences From this Lewis Williams and Pearce illuminate the world view of the San how it plays out in their society and how it has been challenged and altered by the modern world For students of anthropology archaeology religion and African studies this volume will be essential and fascinating reading

Where God and Science Meet Patrick McNamara Ph.D., 2006-09-30 Spiritual practices or awakenings have an impact on brain mind and personality These changes are being scientifically predicted and proven For example studies show Buddhist priests and Franciscan nuns at the peak of religious feelings show a functional change in the lobes of their brain. Similar processes have been found in people with epilepsy which Hippocrates called the sacred disease. New research is showing that not only does a person's brain activity change in particular areas while that person is experiencing religious epiphany but such events can be created for some people even self-professed atheists by stimulating various parts of the brain. In this far-reaching and novel set, experts from across the nation and around the world present evolutionary neuroscientific and psychological approaches to explaining and exploring religion including the newest findings and evidence that have spurred the fledgling field of neurotheology. It is not the goal of neurotheology to prove or disprove the existence of God but to understand the biology of spiritual experiences. Such experiences seem to exist outside time and space caused by the brain for some reason losing its perception of a boundary between physical body and outside world and could help explain other intangible events such as altered states of consciousness, possessions, alien visitations, near-death experiences, and out-of-body events. Understanding them as well as how and why these abilities evolved in the brain could also help us understand how religion contributes to survival of the human race. Eminent contributors to this set help us answer questions including: How does religion better our brain function? What is the difference between a religious person and a terrorist who kills in the name of religion? Is there one site or function in the brain necessary for religious experience?

The History and Environmental Impacts of Hunting Deities
Richard J. Chacon, 2023-10-31 This edited volume analyzes the belief in supernatural gamekeepers and/or animal masters of wildlife from a cross-cultural perspective. It documents the antiquity and widespread occurrence of the belief in supernatural gamekeepers at the global level. This interdisciplinary volume documents both the antiquity and the widespread geographical distribution of this belief along with surveying the various manifestations of this cosmology by way of studies from Europe, Asia, Africa, and North and South America. Some chapters explore the manifestations of this belief as they appear in petroglyphs, pictographs, and other forms of material culture. Others focus on the environmental impacts of these beliefs, rituals, and prescribed foraging restrictions by analyzing how they affect game harvests. The internationally recognized scholars in this volume assess the efficacy of this particular form of traditional ecological knowledge (TEK) and investigate if adherence to the belief in animal masters actually causes hunters to refrain from overharvesting wild game and thereby contributes to sustainable hunting practices. This volume is of interest to anthropologists, archaeologists, and other social scientists researching traditional ecological knowledge (TEK), indigenous conservation, biodiversity, and sustainability practices, and animal deities.

Teach from the Heart Jenell Paris, 2016-06-24 How can a teacher remain whole and happy, able to teach well for an entire semester, an entire year, and an entire career? Teach from the Heart is about finding, rediscovering, or holding on to the heart of the teaching life, which is quite literally the teacher's heart. It is an encouragement to take up teaching as more than a service to provide, a profession to master, or a job to perform. It is an invitation to artisanry teaching as a craft that we master by working with our hands over long periods of time, producing results that bear the mark of their maker Whether you re just beginning or in it for the long haul sit down with Teach from the Heart and deepen your heart for the teaching life We need not bring to class the wisdom and knowledge we gained elsewhere we can take up teaching as a spiritual practice with the classroom as a sacred space for our own formation as persons With nearly forty years experience as both student and teacher Jenell Paris s perspective is hard won but still lighthearted and enthusiastic Teachers from any context will benefit stories and examples include preschool K 12 community education and college teaching Risky Transactions Frank K. Salter,2002 Trust is a central feature of relationships within the Mafia oppressed minorities kin groups everywhere among dissidents nationalist freedom fighters ethnic tourists ethnic middlemen exchange networks of Kalahari Bushmen and families subjected to Stalinist social control Each of these types of trust is examined by a leading scholar and compared with the expectations of neo Darwinian theory in particular the theories of kin selection and ethnic nepotism The result is a fascinating theoretically focused yet empirically eclectic contribution to the overlapping fields of human ethnology evolutionary psychology and bio politics The common thread uniting these diverse phenomena is a trusting relationship predicated on altruism Chapters examine the strengths and limits of human trust under various stressors and temptations to defect By exploring the relationship between kin and ethnic altruism and showing its sensitivity to culture Risky Transactions recasts the evolutionary approach to ethnicity as a blend of primordial and instrumental factors Tracking Indigenous Heritage Salomé Ritterband,2018 Tracking Indigenous Heritage describes the experiences of the Ju hoansi of north eastern Namibia who perform their traditional hunter gatherer lifestyle as a means of generating income Being constantly concerned with their Intangible Cultural Heritage they experimentally re interpret it for the creation of specific staged touristic performances The children grow up with the regular enactment of traditional culture and playfully practice and r enact it themselves After Ju hoansi are moving towards a new position inside the nation state In Living Museums and Cultural Villages located in protected nature conservancies in the Kalahari Desert the Ju hoansi handle their cultural heritage as a basis for self determination and as a strategy to achieve their claims for indigenous rights Making Scenes Iain Davidson, April Nowell,2021-04-13 Dating back to at least 50 000 years ago rock art is one of the oldest forms of human symbolic expression Geographically it spans all the continents on Earth Scenes are common in some rock art and recent work suggests that there are some hints of expression that looks like some of the conventions of western scenic art In this unique volume examining the nature of scenes in rock art researchers examine what defines a scene what are the necessary elements of a scene and what can the evolutionary history tell us about storytelling sequential memory and cognitive evolution among ancient and living cultures The Lion's Historian Sandra Swart,2025-05-06 Until the lion has a historian of his own the tale of the hunt will always glorify the hunter Sandra Swart takes up the challenge of that African proverb and with this book becomes the lion s historian As a species humans are not alone but our history has been written as though we were Swart insists on a multispecies retelling of our more than human past as she reconstructs a shifting series of significant interspecies relationships from quirky idiosyncratic connections to others that triggered major changes Embracing a radical interdisciplinarity informed by a background in history and environmental studies Swart combines the natural sciences with the social sciences oral history indigenous knowledge and archival research She blends current thinking about animal sentience agency cognition and emotion to offer a new way to understand animals roles in our shared history The animals in this book baboons cows elephants hippos horses jackals lions Nazi cattle okapi police dogs quagga sheep and white ants exemplify different facets of our shared past With this animal centric lens decades of research come together in a collection that takes animals seriously It is a book with claws and fangs tearing through conventional narratives to ask Are we prepared to move beyond the convention that history is the story of only our own species

Conceiving God: The Cognitive Origin and Evolution of Religion David Lewis-Williams, 2010-03-01 A controversial exploration of the origin of religion in the neurology of the human brain In this book the noted cognitive archaeologist David Lewis Williams confronts a question that troubles many people in the world today Is there a supernatural realm that intervenes in the material world of daily life and leads to the evolution of religions Professor Lewis Williams first describes how science developed within the cocoon of religion and then shows how the natural functioning of the human brain creates experiences that can lead to belief in a supernatural realm beings and interventions Once people have these experiences they formulate beliefs about them and thus creeds are born Forty thousand years ago people were leaving traces in the archaeological record of activities that we can label religious and Lewis Williams discusses in detail the evidence preserved in the Volp Caves in France He also shows that mental imagery produced by the functioning of the human brain can be detected in widely separated religious communities such as Hildegard of Bingen's in medieval Europe or the San hunters of southern Africa

Ritual Robbie Davis-Floyd, Charles D. Laughlin, 2022-09-13 Designed for both academic and lay audiences this book identifies the characteristics of ritual and via multiple examples details how ritual works on the human body and brain to produce its often profound effects These include enhancing courage effecting healing and generating group cohesion by enacting cultural or individual beliefs and values It also shows what happens when ritual fails

Intelligent Design and Religion as a Natural Phenomenon John S. Wilkins, 2017-03-02 Over the past decade a strident public debate has arisen about the nature and origin of religions Controversies include how exactly religion evolved whether by individual or group selection if it is adaptive and if not whether and how it is a side effect of evolution This volume focuses on the issue of naturalizing religion on the ways in which cognitive science and social sciences have treated religion as a natural phenomenon It questions whether religious behaviour institutions and experiences can be explained in natural terms The editor brings together some of the best published work on the definition of religion intelligent design and the evolution of religion

Chronicling Cultures Robert V. Kemper, Anya Peterson Royce, 2002-04-23 Some field sites have hosted anthropologists for as long as half a century Chronicling Cultures collects articles from principals of many of the longest and best known anthropology projects from four continents the Kung Harvard Chiapas Project Gwembe Valley Tzintzuntzan and Navajo among others These projects have brought a new understanding of change and persistence in communities over time They have forced researchers to develop methods of involving local communities in research of using data over generations of scholars and of resolving ethical issues of research versus advocacy The projects range from individual scholars who return home year after year to large scale institutionalized projects involving many researchers and numerous studies This volume will be an important addition to the literature on fieldwork on the history of ethnology and on ethnographers role in their host cultures
