Yugoslav Jewry which consisted of Ashkenazim Sephardim as well as of the Orthodox Jews as a separate group The third level deals with the everyday life of the Macedonian Sephards from 1912 to 1941 as well as their social cultural political and economic development in one micro environment The inter ethnic relations which were part of the political social and Jewish reality in Macedonia were also investigated in this study Textiles Bibliography, 2002 R. Women and Industry in the Balkans Chiara Bonfiglioli, 2019-09-19 Women's emancipation through productive labour was a key tenet of socialist politics in post World War II Yugoslavia Mass industrialisation under Tito led many young women to join traditionally feminised sectors and as a consequence the textile sector grew rapidly fast becoming a gendered symbol of industrialisation consumption and socialist modernity By the 1980s Yugoslavia was one of the world's leading producers of textiles and garments The break up of Yugoslavia in 1991 however resulted in factory closures bankruptcy and layoffs forcing thousands of garment industry workers into precarious and often exploitative private sector jobs Drawing on more than 60 oral history interviews with former and current garment workers as well as workplace periodicals and contemporary press material collected across Croatia Macedonia Serbia Bosnia Herzegovina and Slovenia Women and Industry in the Balkans charts the rise and fall of the Yugoslav textile sector as well as the implications of this post socialist transition for the first time In the process the book explores broader questions about memories of socialism lingering feelings of attachment to the socialist welfare system and the complexity of the post socialist era This is important reading for all scholars working on the history and politics of Yugoslavia and the Balkans oral history memory studies and gender studies

A Muslim Woman in Tito's Yugoslavia Munevera Hadžišehović, 2003 Born in a small river town in the largely Muslim province of Sandzak Munevera Hadzisehovic grew up in an area sandwiched between the Orthodox Christian regions of Montenegro and Serbia cut off from other Muslims in Bosnia and Herzegovina Her story takes her reader from the urban culture of the early 1930s through the massacres World War II and the repression of the early Communist regime to the dissolution of Yugoslavia in the early 1990s It sheds light on the history of Yugoslavia from the interwar Kingdom to the breakup of the socialist state In poignant and vivid detail Hadzisehovic paints a picture not only of her own life but of the lives of other Muslims especially women in an era and an area of great change Readers are given a loving yet accurate portrait of Muslim customs pertaining to the household gardens food and dating in short of everyday life Hadzisehovic writes from the inside out starting with her emotions and experiences then moving outward to the facts that concern those interested in this region the role of the Ustashe Chetniks and Germans in World War II the attitude of Serb dominated Yugoslavia toward Muslims and the tragic state of ethnic relations that led to war again in the 1990s Some of Hadzisehovic's experiences and many of her views may be controversial She speaks of Muslim women's reluctance to give up the veil the disadvantages of mixed marriages and the problems caused by Serb and Croat nationalists Her benign view of Italian occupation is in stark contrast to her depiction of bloodthirsty Chetnik irregulars Her analysis of Belgrade's Muslims suggests that class differences were just as important as religious affiliation In this personal yet universal story Hadzisehovic mourns the loss of two worlds the orderly Muslim world of her childhood and the secular multi ethnic world of communist Yugoslavia
