Louisa Waterford and John Ruskin Caroline Ings-Chambers, 2017-07-05 Louisa Waterford 1818-91 modest retiring of good family renowned for her beauty and with extraordinary grace was the embodiment of a Victorian ideal of womanhood But like the age itself her life was filled with contrasts and paradoxes She had been born with artistic gifts and became a satellite of the Pre Raphaelite Brotherhood though she had no formal training Then at the height of John Ruskin's intellectual power and success as a critic she asked him to accept her as an art student and he accepted Their correspondence often harshly critical never as Waterford put it falsely praising lies at the heart of this book These are letters which open a spectrum of discussion on the cultural gender and social issues of the period Both Waterford and Ruskin engaged in tireless philanthropic work for diverse causes crossing social boundaries with subtle determination and both responded to a sense of duty as well as an artistic vocation But as Ings Chambers shows their correspondence was more than a dialogue about society it helped to make Waterford the artist she became

Théodore Rousseau and the Rise of the Modern Art Market Simon Kelly, 2021-03-25 The 19th century in France witnessed the emergence of the structures of the modern art market that remain until this day This book examines the relationship between the avant garde Barbizon landscape painter Théodore Rousseau 1812-1867 and this market exploring the constellation of patrons art dealers and critics who surrounded the artist It argues for the pioneering role of

Rousseau his patrons and his public in the origins of the modern art market and in so doing shifts attention away from the more traditional focus on the novel careers of the Impressionists and their supporters Drawing on extensive archival research the book provides new insight into the role of the modern artist as professional It provides a new understanding of the complex iconographical and formal choices within Rousseau s work rediscovering the original radical charge that once surrounded the artist s work and led to extensive and peculiarly modern tensions with the market place British

Paintings in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, 1575-1875 Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.),Katharine Baetjer,2009 Covering the period between the late 16th century through to the third quarter of the 19th century this book features paintings by English Scottish Welsh and Irish artists which are part of the collection of the Metropolitan Museum of Art Art, Artisans and Apprentices James Ayres,2014-06-30 Before the foundation of academies of art in London in 1758 and Philadelphia in 1805 most individuals who were to emerge as artists trained in workshops of varying degrees of relevance Easel painters began their careers apprenticed to carriage house sign or ship painters whilst a few were placed with those who made pictures Sculptors emerged from a training as ornamental plasterers or carvers Of the many other trades in a position to offer an appropriate background were limning staining engraving surveying chasing and die sinking In addition plumbers gained the right to use oil painting and for plasterers the application of distemper was an extension of their trade Central to the theme of this book is the notion that for those who were to become either painters or sculptor a training in a trade met their practical needs This training was of an altogether different nature to an education in an art school In the past prospective artists were offered by means of apprenticeships an empirical rather than a theoretical understanding of their ultimate vocation James Ayres provides a lively account of the inter relationship between art and trade in the late seventeenth to early nineteenth centuries in both Britain and North America He demonstrates with numerous illustrated examples the many cross overs in the art and mystery of artistic training and to modern eyes the sometimes incongruous relationships between the various trades that contributed to the blossoming of many artistic careers including some of the most illustrious names of the long eighteenth century Landscapes of Memory Gerald Finley,2024-03-29

Turner: Standing in the Sun Anthony Bailey,2013-09-05 Joseph Mallord William Turner is arguably Britain s greatest and most mysterious painter whose range of work encompasses seascape and landscape immensely powerful oil paintings and intimate watercolours His friend and colleague C R Leslie remembered him thus Turner was short and stout and had a sturdy sailor like walk He might be taken for the captain of a river steamboat at first glance but a second would find more in his face than belongs in any ordinary mind There was that peculiar keenness of expression in his eye that is only seen in men of constant habits of observation The son of a Covent garden barber and a woman who died in Bethlehem Hospital Turner achieved fame and fortune during his lifetime Although he possessed a wide ranging imagination he was an often incoherent speaker and writer and his muddled will produced much discord it is a wonder that despite avaricious relatives and incompetent lawyers so many of his works are now in the hands of the nation and publicly proclaim his genius In this previously unavailable biography Anthony Bailey has drawn upon archival material scholarly literature and research as well as studying many of Turner's sketchbooks paintings and watercolours Uncovering fresh material as well as pulling together previously known facts Bailey sheds new light on this complicated and secretive artistic figure

The Life and Masterworks of J.M.W. Turner Eric Shanes, 2012-05-08 At fifteen Turner was already exhibiting View of Lambeth He soon acquired the reputation of an immensely clever watercolourist A disciple of Girtin and Cozens he showed in his choice and presentation of theme a picturesque imagination which seemed to mark him out for a brilliant career as an illustrator He travelled first in his native land and then on several occasions in France the Rhine Valley Switzerland and Italy He soon began to look beyond illustration However even in works in which we are tempted to see only picturesque imagination there appears his dominant and guiding ideal of lyric landscape His choice of a single master from the past is an eloquent witness for he studied profoundly such canvases of Claude as he could find in England copying and imitating them with a marvellous degree of perfection His cult for the great painter never failed He desired his Sun Rising through Vapour and Dido Building Carthage to be placed in the National Gallery side by side with two of Claude's masterpieces And there we may still see them and judge how legitimate was this proud and splendid homage It was only in 1819 that Turner went to Italy to go again in 1829 and 1840 Certainly Turner experienced emotions and found subjects for reverie which he later translated in terms of his own genius into symphonies of light and colour Ardour is tempered with melancholy as shadow strives with light Melancholy even as it appears in the enigmatic and profound creation of Albrecht Dürer finds no home in Turner's protean fairyland what place could it have in a cosmic dream Humanity does not appear there except perhaps as stage characters at whom we hardly glance Turner's pictures fascinate us and yet we think of nothing precise nothing human only unforgettable colours and phantoms that lay hold on our imaginations Humanity really only inspires him when linked with the idea of death a strange death more a lyrical dissolution like the finale of an opera
