Farther Afield In The Study Of Nature Oriented Literature:

Farther Afield in the Study of Nature-oriented Literature Patrick D. Murphy, 2000 In the 1990s the emerging field of ecocriticism nature sensitive literary studies began to establish and define itself Arguing that the field has matured to the point where it requires a thorough critique and new theoretical underpinnings Patrick D Murphy suggests a variety of ways ecocriticism can become more inclusive in its objects of study and more sophisticated in its methodologies According to Murphy ecocriticism in the United States has been too narrowly associated with the study of nonfiction To broaden the field s purview he proposes a new taxonomy that draws an important distinction between nature writing a nonfiction essay form descended from Henry David Thoreau nature literature which includes fiction and poetry and environmental literature which is inspired by and concerned with a threatened natural world He also urges ecocritics to expand their study to international literature and he proceeds to survey nature oriented prose from Central America the Caribbean southern Africa Spain and Japan On a theoretical level Murphy addresses the relationship of ecofeminism to postmodernism and provides interpretations of contemporary American multicultural and women s literature including works by Gary Snyder Simon Ortiz Jane Brox Pat Mora Lori Anderson Nora Naranjo Morse Sallie Tisdale and Terry Tempest Williams Applying his theories of ecocritical analysis to underappreciated or unknown literature especially fiction and poetry by American women writers of color Murphy introduces his fellow critics to authors ripe for ecocritical analysis Murphy s wide ranging book will no doubt serve as a watershed in the development of ecocriticism

The Environmental Justice Reader Joni Adamson, Mei Mei Evans, Rachel Stein, 2022-02-08 From the First National People of Color Congress on Environmental Leadership to WTO street protests of the new millennium environmental justice activists have challenged the mainstream movement by linking social inequalities to the uneven distribution of environmental dangers Grassroots movements in poor communities and communities of color strive to protect neighborhoods and worksites from environmental degradation and struggle to gain equal access to the natural resources that sustain their cultures This book examines environmental justice in its social economic political and cultural dimensions in both local and global contexts with special attention paid to intersections of race gender and class inequality The first book to link political studies literary analysis and teaching strategies it offers a multivocal approach that combines perspectives from organizations such as the Southwest Network for Environmental and Economic Justice and the International Indigenous Treaty Council with the insights of such notable scholars as Devon Pe a Giovanna Di Chiro and Valerie Kuletz and also includes a range of newer voices in the field This collection approaches environmental justice concerns from diverse geographical ethnic and disciplinary perspectives always viewing environmental issues as integral to problems of social inequality and oppression It offers new case studies of native Alaskans protests over radiation poisoning Hispanos struggles to protect their land and water rights Pacific Islanders resistance to nuclear weapons testing and nuclear waste storage and the efforts of women employees of maquiladoras to obtain safer living and working

Vakoch, 2012-07-23

Feminist Ecocriticism examines the interplay of women and nature as seen through literary theory and criticism drawing on insights from such diverse fields as chaos theory and psychoanalysis while examining genres ranging from nineteenth century sentimental literature to contemporary science fiction The book explores the central claim of ecofeminism that there is a connection between environmental degradation and the subordination of women with the goal of identifying and fostering liberatory alternatives Feminist Ecocriticism analyzes the work of such diverse women writers as Rachel Carson Barbara Kingsolver Ursula K Le Guin and Mary Shelley By including chapters from a comparable number of women and men this book dispels the notion that ecofeminism is relevant to and used by only female scholars After uncovering the oppressive dichotomies of male female and nature culture that underlie contemporary environmental problems Feminist Ecocriticism focuses specifically on emancipatory strategies employed by ecofeminist literary critics as antidotes asking what our lives might be like as those strategies become increasingly successful in overcoming oppression Thus ecofeminism is not limited to the critique of literature but also helps identify and articulate liberatory ideals that can be actualized in the real world in the process transforming everyday life Providing an alternative to rugged individualism for example ecofeminist literature promotes a more fulfilling sense of interrelationship with both community and the land In the process of exploring literature from ecofeminist perspectives the book reveals strategies of emancipation that have already begun to give rise to more hopeful ecological narratives Feminist Ecocriticism provides a novel integration of two important strands of contemporary literary criticism that have often failed to make contact feminist criticism and ecocriticism The openness of both feminist criticism and ecocriticism to multiple even incompatible perspectives without the insistence on unitary definitions of their fields has given rise to a new hybrid discipline feminist ecocriticism New Perspectives in Diasporic Experience

Pilgrimage to Vallombrosa John Elder, 2012-10-05 Set aside your Bella Tuscany s and Year in Provinces for a different kind of travel book Pilgrimage to Vallombrosa puts a walking stick in your hand and Marsh s Man and Nature in your knapsack exploring how Italians have managed their natural and cultural heritage in ways that sustain both John Elder s poetic meditations on land and life demonstrate that only by searching beyond our familiar boundaries can we discover better ways of living back at home Marcus Hall author of Earth Repair A Transatlantic History of Environmental Restoration This collaboration between George

Perkins Marsh and John Elder between Vermont and Italy between maple and olive is one of the smartest soundest deepest books about the relationship between people and nature that I've ever read. It will be a classic. Bill McKibben, author of The End of Nature. Elder's impassioned pilgrimage shows us how to delight in messy wilderness to secure a curative habitation of the world and with Marsh to lend ecological nous to our gravest task: knowing ourselves and respecting one another. Let the maple seeds and olive stones of Elder's visionary harvest restore to us a reflective and redemptory future. —from the foreword by David Lowenthal

The pivotal figure in Pilgrimage to Vallombrosa is the nineteenth-century diplomat and writer George Perkins Marsh, generally regarded as America's first environmentalist. Like Elder, Marsh was a Vermonter, and his diplomatic career took him for some years to Italy, where, witnessing the ecological devastation wrought upon the landscape by runaway deforestation and the plundering of other natural resources, he was moved to produce his famous manifesto, Man and Nature. Marsh drew parallels between the despoiled Italian environment and his home landscape of Vermont, warning that the latter was vulnerable to ecological woes of a similar magnitude if not carefully maintained and protected. In short, his was a prescient voice for stewardship. Elder follows in Marsh's footsteps along a trajectory running from Vermont to Italy, and at length fetches up at the managed forest of Vallombrosa. Punctuated throughout with learned and genial considerations of the poetry of Wordsworth, Basho, Dante, and Frost, Elder's narrative takes up issues of sustainability as practiced locally, reports on family doings, and returns finally, as did Marsh's, to Vermont, where he measures traditional stewardship values against more aggressive conservation-oriented measures such as the expansion of wilderness areas.

John Elder, Professor of English and Environmental Studies at Middlebury College, is the author of Reading the Mountains of Home and The Frog Run Under the Sign of Nature. Explorations in Ecocriticism. Fallen Forests. Karen L. Kilcup, 2013-05-01.

In 1844, Lydia Sigourney asserted, "Man's warfare on the trees is terrible." Like Sigourney, many American women of her day engaged with such issues as sustainability, resource wars, globalization, voluntary simplicity, Christian ecology, and environmental justice. Illuminating the foundations for contemporary women's environmental writing, Fallen Forests shows how their nineteenth-century predecessors marshaled powerful affective, ethical, and spiritual resources to chastise, educate, and motivate readers to engage in positive social change. Fallen Forests contributes to scholarship in American women's writing, ecofeminism, ecocriticism, and feminist rhetoric, expanding the literary, historical, and theoretical grounds for some of today's most pressing environmental debates. Karen L. Kilcup rejects prior critical emphases on sentimentalism to show how women writers have drawn on their literary emotional intelligence to raise readers' consciousness about social and environmental issues. She also critiques ecocriticism's idealizing tendency, which has elided women's complicity in agendas that depart from today's environmental orthodoxies. Unlike previous ecocritical works, Fallen Forests includes marginalized texts by African American, Native American, Mexican American, working-class, and non-Protestant women. Kilcup also enlarges ecocriticism's genre foundations, showing how Cherokee oratory, travel writing, slave narrative, diary, polemic, sketches, novels, poetry, and expos

Persuasive Aesthetic Ecocritical Praxis Patrick D. Murphy, 2015-08-20 Persuasive Aesthetic Ecocritical Praxis continues Patrick D Murphy's focus on transversal ecocritical praxis by considering literature and cinema in terms of the persuasive force of aesthetic activity and whether or not artistic production and its criticism can be considered forms of activism Murphy argues that literature and other forms of aesthetic production hold out the promise of being able to move some individuals deeply through both affective and intellectual engagement in ways that facilitate ideological reflection To analyze aesthetic production ecocritically requires a transversal orientation in order to work continuously at accommodating a vast array of often seemingly disparate perspectives disciplines and contextual information as well as the ever changing thematic plot setting and contextual elements of the aesthetic works under consideration and the responses of changing audiences through time and across cultures Murphy demonstrates this approach through presenting theories of transversality and applying them with attention to issues of propaganda agitation and persuasion both in terms of artistic production and the criticism of such production He also brings an ecofeminist orientation to the fore with particular attention to the gendered economic aspects of environmental issues in an age of land grabs and plantation economies Along the way he treats a wide range of literary works films and miniseries In American literature he discusses realist and science fiction works from Susan Fenimore Cooper's Rural Hours to Paolo Bacigalupi's The Windup Girl Barbara Kingsolver's Flight Behavior to Kim Stanley Robinson's 2312 and Ana Castillo's So Far from God to Leslie Marmon Silko's Gardens in the Dunes In international literature he analyzes Mo Yan's The Garlic Ballads Jiang Rong's Wolf Totem Michiko Ishimure's The Lake of Heaven Miyuki Miyabe's All She Was Worth and other novels The book concludes with a reading of Ernest Callenbach's Ecotopia and Ecotopia Emerging an Afterword recommending further directions for transversal ecocritical research an and interview that discusses Murphy's previous book Transversal Ecocritical Praxis and provides some personal background on the author Greening the Academy Samuel
