Excerpt from The Expositor's Greek Testament I In the case of no book of the New Testament is it more essential to a true understanding of its language that we should have a clear view of the circumstances under which it was composed than in the case of 2 Corinthians It is the most autobiographical of all St Paul's letters and it abounds in personal allusions which it is difficult at this distance of time to appreciate and of which some will probably always remain obscure It glows with the heat of fervid life and was evidently written under the influence of strong emotion And if we do not assign it to its true place in St Paul's life we are likely to miss a good deal of the force of its earnest and eager words It is therefore desirable to enter into more detail as to the occasion of its composition than was necessary in the case of a treatise like the Epistle to the Romans the arguments of which are largely independent of the circumstances of the author at the time when it was written About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing
