Eyewitness In The Crimea The Crimean War Letters Of Lt Col George Frederick Dallas 1854-1856:

Eyewitness In The Crimea Michael Hargreave Mawson, 2001 The thoughts of an officer at the forefront of the fighting portraying the daily hardships experienced by the soldiers Eyewitness in the Crimea Michael Hargreave Mawson, 2015-09-30 George Frederick Fred Dallas wrote 137 letters to his family and friends while on active service in the Crimea A company commander in the 46th Foot his first letters reflect a soldier's enthusiasm for the brilliant affair that awaits the British Army overseas Within weeks of arriving excitement turns to disbelief at the continual misjudgement of his leaders Poor preparation and divided command exposed the troops to surprise attacks from The Russe and to the appalling conditions of the Crimean winter By contrast Dallas reports on the casual bravery of his comrades recognise the true heroes of a mismanaged campaign Through these letters we relive the terrible perils of combat and siege warfare the author's almost miraculous escape from serious injury whilst continually witnessing his comrades slaughter the monotony of being entrenched in Sebastopol the utter confusion surrounding instructions to attack the mistakes at Inkermann and the Redan the wearying cold We also get an insight into the quieter moments in camp and the friendships forged between the men Supplemented by the editor's excellent footnotes and detailed biographical index this is a revealing and intimate history of all those involved in the Crimean War Publisher description Letters from the Black Sea During the Crimean War, 1854-1855 Sir Leopold George Heath, 1897 Letters from the Black Sea During the Crimean War, Leopold George Heath, 2020-01-20 An Officer's Letters to His Wife During the Crimean War Richard Denis Kelly, 1902 A Crimean Winter of Discontent Ian Fletcher, 2023-06-01 As the snow fell on the face it froze and my hair was matted with ice and icicles formed on my eyelashes So intense was the cold that whenever I was compelled in visiting the sentries or otherwise to face the blast my nose burst out bleeding which with the exposure exhausted one so much that it was only the certainty of never rising again that prevented me throwing myself down in the snow This is just one of many lurid passages from the letters of William John Rous who arrived in the Crimea in December 1854 with his regiment the 90th Perthshire Regiment Throughout the following months Rous wrote a series of letters describing the ordeal of life in the trenches before Sevastopol in graphic detail These letters have remained unpublished ever since Now though Ian Fletcher one of the leading authorities on the Crimean War has edited and illustrated Rous's work for republication The letters were written during what was the most controversial period of the Crimean War for the British army for it was during this period that the shortcomings in the army were cruelly exposed during a bitter winter which saw more British soldiers die of cold disease and overwork than were killed through enemy action Rous's words bring home the terrible conditions in the trenches the lack of sleep the endless overwork the constant fear and threat of a Russian sortie not to mention the ever present dangers posed by the Russian guns inside the city Rous's experience sheds new light on one of the most famous but tragic campaigns ever fought by the British army Letters from the Crimea, the Danube and Armenia Charles George Gordon, 2012-02-16 Published in 1884 when the controversial general's popularity was at its height these letters offer an insight into his personality LETTERS FROM THE BLACK SEA LEOPOLD GEORGE. HEATH, 2019 The Light Cavalry Brigade in the Crimea Lord George Paget, 1881

Letters Written From The Crimea To Several Members Of His Family Fiennes Cornwallis, Matilda Wykeham Martin, 2023-07-18 During the Crimean War Fiennes Cornwallis wrote letters to his family members that contain his observations and experiences This book contains a collection of those letters providing a first hand account of the war and the conditions faced by soldiers This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations Within the United States you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work Scholars believe and we concur that this work is important enough to be preserved reproduced and made generally available to the public We appreciate your support of the preservation process and thank you for being an important part of keeping this knowledge alive and relevant The Light Cavalry Brigade in the Crimea Lord George Paget, 1975 Letters from the Crimea David Greig, 2010 This book contains letters from a young Dundee surgeon who had volunteered to serve with the British Army during the Crimean War 1854-1856 There is very little about the much documented chaos of the campaign and the misery in the British Military Hospital in Constantinople Instead we have this young doctor's first hand comments on the events that took place around him Preface The Eastern Question Karl Marx, 2015-07-11 Excerpt from The Eastern Question A Reprint of Letters Written 1853-1856 Dealing With the Events of the Crimean War Washington has an interesting and special bearing upon the leaders written by Marx You see the Tribune has again appropriated a leader this would be right enough because it attracts special attention if only K M were printed below it I believe too that they would do this if it were not against their rules and habits And after all it doesn't harm you much either for the careful reader can see that it wasn't written by the editorial staff From personal knowledge we can state that many of Marx letters were used and printed by the Tribune as leaders although Marx had originally written them as correspondence Upon other occasions he of purpose wrote articles which were intended to be leaders and in these he naturally wrote in a somewhat different form from that used in his signed correspondence In several cases where his correspondence has been turned into leaders a few words of addition and interpolation have been written in by the American editors to keep up journalistic appearances See for example pp 188 190 222 and especially the end of p 193 Apparently also on more than one occasion ideas or actual passages from letters of Marx were used and written round by the American journalists This has made the task of selection very difficult and has certainly in one case at least led to the inclusion see CI of an article the major part of which could not have been written by Marx Whilst there may be one or two authentic contributions of his that have been missed we have designedly left out several of a purely technical military character On the other hand we have included certain military articles bearing very directly on the war Most if not all of these were either written by Engels or
