longstanding assumption in the IR literature has been that European foreign policies toward the People's Republic of China have been driven by a naive and self-interested focus on the economic opportunities presented by such a vast market overlooking security considerations. This book challenges such common belief through a detailed examination of the policies of France, Germany, and the United Kingdom from 1989 to the present. Its central argument is that whereas this assessment aptly characterized the first two post-Cold War decades, Beijing's growing assertiveness after 2009 caused the three major European powers to awaken to China's rise. In the 2010s, heightened threat perceptions of China coupled with increasingly competitive bilateral economic relations with the PRC have gradually and cumulatively caused the hardening of their policy goals, which in turn translated into the formulation of new policy instruments to confront such a challenge. To substantiate this argument, the book relies on a large body of previously undisclosed primary sources, including 223 interviews conducted with senior officials in Europe (Berlin, Brussels, London, Paris), in the United States (Washington, DC), and in Asia (Beijing, Shanghai, New Delhi, Seoul), declassified archival documents from France, the UK, and Germany, leaked US diplomatic cables, and new data on European naval deployments.

Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists, 1966-06. The Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists is the premier public resource on scientific and technological developments that impact global security. Founded by Manhattan Project scientists, the Bulletin's iconic Doomsday Clock stimulates solutions for a safer world.

The International Who's Who of Women 2002. Elizabeth Sleeman, 2001. Over 5,500 detailed biographies of the most eminent, talented, and distinguished women in the world today.

Guide to Reprints, 2009. Sheer Misery. Mary Louise, 2021-04-20. Marching across occupied France in 1944, American GI Leroy Stewart had neither death nor glory on his mind; he was worried about his underwear, which was engaged in a relentless crawl of its own. Similar complaints of physical discomfort pervade infantrymen's memories of the European theater, whether the soldiers were British, American, German, or French. Wet, freezing misery with no end in sight: this was life for millions of enlisted men during World War II. Sheer Misery trains a humane and unsparing eye on the corporeal experiences of the soldiers who fought in Belgium, France, and Italy during the last two years of the war. In the horrendously unhygienic and often lethal conditions of the front line, their bodies broke down stubbornly, declaring their needs for warmth, rest, and good nutrition. Feet became too swollen to march, fingers too frozen to pull triggers, stomachs cramped, and diarrhea stained underwear and pants. Turning away from the accounts of high-level military strategy that dominate many WWII chronicles, acclaimed historian Mary Louise Roberts instead relies on diaries and letters to bring to life visceral sense memories like the moans of the screaming meemies, the acrid smell of cordite, and the shockingly mundane sight of rotting corpses. As Roberts writes, "For soldiers who fought the war was above all about their bodies."
