Traditionally scientific fields have defined boundaries and scientists work on research problems within those boundaries However from time to time those boundaries get shifted or blurred to evolve new fields For instance the original goal of computer vision was to understand a single image of a scene by identifying objects their structure and spatial arrangements This has been referred to as image understanding Recently computer vision has gradually been making the transition away from understanding single images to analyzing image sequences or video understanding Video understanding deals with understanding of video sequences e g recognition of gestures activities facial expressions etc The main shift in the classic paradigm has been from the recognition of static objects in the scene to motion based recognition of actions and events Video understanding has overlapping research problems with other fields therefore blurring the fixed boundaries Computer graphics image processing and video databases have obvious overlap with computer vision The main goal of computer graphics is to generate and animate realistic looking images and videos Researchers in computer graphics are increasingly employing techniques from computer vision to generate the synthetic imagery A good example of this is image based rendering and modeling techniques in which geometry appearance and lighting is derived from real images using computer vision techniques Here the shift is from synthesis to analysis followed by synthesis Yoshi Michael Hayes,2022-09-26 Yoshi

Miller,Mrs. Alex. McVeigh Miller,1883 Building Bridges Stuart A. Pizer,2013-05-13 In Building Bridges Stuart A Pizer gives much needed recognition to the central role of negotiation in the analytic relationship and in the therapeutic process Building on a Winnicottian perspective that comprehends paradox as the condition for preserving an intrapsychic and relational potential space Pizer explores how the straddling of paradox requires an ongoing process of negotiation and demonstrates how such negotiation articulates the creative potential within the potential space of analysis Following careful review of Winnicott's perspective on paradox via the pairings of privacy and interrelatedness isolation and interdependence ruthlessness and concern and the notion of transitional phenomena Pizer locates these elemental paradoxes within the negotiations of an analytic process Together he observes analyst and patient negotiate the boundaries potentials limits tonalities resistances and meanings that determine the course of their clinical dialogue Elaborating on the theme of a multiply constituted distributed self Pizer presents a model for the tolerance of paradox as a developmental achievement related to ways in which caretakers function as transitional mirrors He then explores the impact of trauma and dissociation on the child s ability to negotiate paradox and clarifies how negotiation of paradox differs from negotiation of conflict Pizer also broadens the scope of his study by turning to negotiation theory and practices in the disciplines of law diplomacy and dispute resolution Enlivened by numerous clinical vignettes and a richly detailed chronicle of an analytic case from its earliest negotiations to termination Building Bridges adds a significant dimension to theoretical understanding and clinical practice It is altogether a psychoanalytic work of our time Journal of the American Medical Association ,1915 *Of Life

 Pfaff,2014-11-13 Since the beginning of recorded history law and religion have provided rules that define good behavior

When we obey such rules we assign to some external authority the capacity to determine how we should act Even anarchists recognize the existence of a choice as to whether or not to obey since no one has seriously doubted that the source of social order resides in our vast ethical systems Debate has focused only on whose system is best never for an instant imagining that law religion or some philosophical permutation of either was not the basis of prosocial action The only divergence from this uniform understanding of human society has come from the behavioral sciences which cite various biological bases for human goodness Putting aside both ancient and relatively modern ethical systems neuroscientists psychologists and evolutionary biologists have started a revolution more profound than any anarchist ever dreamed of In essence these researchers argue that the source of good human behavior of the benevolence that we associate with the highest religious teachings emanates from our physical make up Our brains hormones and genes literally embody our social compasses In The Altruistic Brain renowned neuroscientist Donald Pfaff provides the latest most far reaching argument in support of this revolution explaining in exquisite detail how our neuroanatomical structure favors kindness towards others Unlike any other study in its field The Altruistic Brain synthesizes all the most important research into how and why at a purely physical level humans empathize with one another and respond altruistically It demonstrates that human beings are wired to behave altruistically in the first instance such that unprompted spontaneous kindness is our default behavior such behavior comes naturally irrespective of religious or cultural determinants Based on his own research and that of some of the world's most eminent scientists Dr Pfaff puts together well established brain mechanisms into a theory that is at once novel but also easily demonstrable He further explains how using psycho social approaches that are now well understood we can clear away obstacles to the brain's natural altruistic inclinations This is the first book not only to explain why we are naturally good but to suggest means of making us behave as well as we can The Altruistic Brain is required reading for anyone who wants to understand the behavioral revolution in science and the promise that it holds for reorienting society towards greater cooperation
