From Sentence To Narrative:

From Sentence to Narrative Marilyn M. Toomey, Susan Christy-Pallo, 1998 Deixis in Narrative Judith F. Duchan, Gail A. Bruder, Lynne E. Hewitt, 2012-12-06 This volume describes the theoretical and empirical results of a seven year collaborative effort of cognitive scientists to develop a computational model for narrative understanding Disciplines represented include artificial intelligence cognitive psychology communicative disorders education English geography linguistics and philosophy The book argues for an organized representational system a Deictic Center DC which is constructed by readers from language in a text combined with their world knowledge As readers approach a new text they need to gather and maintain information about who the participants are and where and when the events take place This information plays a central role in understanding the narrative The editors claim that readers maintain this information without explicit textual reminders by including it in their mental model of the story world Because of the centrality of the temporal spatial and character information in narratives they developed their notion of a DC as a crucial part of the reader s mental model of the narrative The events that carry the temporal and spatial core of the narrative are linguistically and conceptually constrained according to certain principles that can be relatively well defined A narrative obviously unfolds one word or one sentence at a time This volume suggests that cognitively a narrative usually unfolds one place and time at a time This spatio temporal location functions as part of the DC of the narrative It is the here and now of the reader s mind s eye in the world of the story Organized into seven parts this book describes the goal of the cognitive science project resulting in this volume the methodological approaches taken and the history of the collaborative effort It provides a historical and theoretical background underlying the DC theory including discussions of deixis in language and the nature of fiction It goes on to outline the computational framework and how it is used to represent deixis in narrative and details the linguistic devices implicated in the DC theory Other subjects covered include crosslinguistic indicators of subjectivity psychological investigations of the use of deixis by children and adults as they process narratives conversation direction giving implications for emerging literacy and a narrator s experience in writing a short story Making Sense of Narrative Text Michael Toolan, 2016-06-03 This book takes the following question as its starting point What are some of the crucial things the reader must do in order to make sense of a literary narrative The book is a study of the texture of narrative fiction using stylistics corpus linguistic principles especially Hoey s work on lexical patterning narratological ideas and cognitive stylistic work by Werth Emmott and others Michael Toolan explores the textual grammatical nature of fictional narratives critically re examining foundational ideas about the role of lexical patterning in narrative texts and also engages the cognitive or psychological processes at play in literary reading The study grows out of the theoretical questions that stylistic analyses of extended fictional texts raise concerning the nature of narrative comprehension and the reader s experience in the course of reading narratives and particularly concerning the role of language in that comprehension and experience The ideas of situation repetition and picturing are all central to the book's argument about how readers process story and Toolan also considers the ethical and emotional involvement of the reader developing hypotheses about the text linguistic characteristics of the most ethically and emotionally involving portions of the stories examined This book makes an important contribution to the study of narrative text and is in dialogue with recent work in corpus stylistics cognitive stylistics and literary text and texture

Unspeakable Sentences (Routledge Revivals) Ann Banfield, 2014-07-17 First published in 1982 this title grew from a series of essays on various aspects of narrative style the result is a finished product that melds literary theory with linguistic methodology It is argued that where linguistic theory intersects with literary theory it is narrative that provides the crucial experiment for deciding between a communication and a non communication theory of language and by extension of literature Chapters discuss such areas as subjectivity in direct and indirect speech the absence of the narrator and the development of narrative style With a detailed introduction to the subject this reissue will be of value to students of linguistics and literature with a particular interest in narrative style and linguistic theory

Reading the Wife/Sister Narratives in Genesis Hwagu Kang, 2018-10-31 The book of Genesis introduces three similar wife sister narratives commonly thought to be originating from different sources because of their repetitive entries This research explores the wife sister narratives in Genesis Gen 12 10 13 1 20 1 18 and 26 1 11 and it aims to provide an understanding of the three stories as a whole by uncovering its context by textlinguistic and literary type scene analysis Textlinguistic analysis helps us to see how each wife sister narrative functions in its context while type scene analysis emphasizes how the three narratives develop and contribute to the patriarchal narratives through their similarities and variations Although the traditional type scene analysis studies recurrent fixed motives in texts this study focuses much more on literary aspects such as characterization theme and plot Through this study the three wife sister stories will elaborate that the patriarchal narratives are not results of different authors but the well developed products of a single author The three wife sister stories work together to highlight God's faithfulness to his promises Gen 12 1 3

The WPA Oklahoma Slave Narratives T. Lindsay Baker, Julie Philips Baker, 1996 I never talk to nobody bout this was the response of one aged African American when asked by a Works Project Administration field worker to share memories of his life in slavery and after emancipation He and other ex slaves were uncomfortable with the memories of a time when black and white lives were interwoven through human bondage Yet the WPA field workers overcame the old people's reticence and American West scholars T Lindsay Baker and Julie P Baker have collected all the known WPA Oklahoma slave narratives in this volume for the first time including fourteen never published before Their careful editorial notes detail what is known about the interviewers and the process of preparing the narratives The interviews were made in the late 1930s in Oklahoma Although many African Americans had relocated there after emancipation in 1865 some interviewees had been slaves of

Cherokees Chickasaws Choctaws or Creeks in the Indian Territory Their narratives constitute important primary sources on the foodways agricultural practices and home life of Oklahoma Indians This definitive indexed edition will be an important resource for Oklahoma and Southwest historians as well as those interested in the history of African Americans slavery and Oklahoma s Five Tribes For those studying the generation of African American men and women who over a century ago

Author and Narrator Dorothee Birke,Tilmann Köppe,2015-03-10 The distinction between author and narrator is one of the cornerstones of narrative theory In the past two decades however scope implications and consequences of this distinction have become the subjects of debate This volume offers contributions to these debates from different vantage points literary studies linguistics philosophy and media studies It thus manifests the status of narrative theory as a transdisciplinary project

Sentence Connection in Tacitus Clarence Whittlesey Mendell,1911 Experience and Teleology in Ancient Historiography Jonas Grethlein,2013-10-17 The past is narrated in retrospect Historians can either capitalize on the benefit of hindsight and give their narratives a strongly teleological design or they may try to render the past as it was experienced by historical agents and contemporaries This book explores the fundamental tension between experience and teleology in major works of Greek and Roman historiography biography and autobiography The combination of theoretical reflections with close readings yields a new often surprising assessment of the history of ancient historiography as well as a deeper understanding of such authors as Thucydides Tacitus and Augustine While much recent work has focused on how ancient historians use emplotment to generate historical meaning Experience and Teleology in Ancient Historiography offers a new approach to narrative form as a mode of coming to grips with time

The Novel Dorothy J. Hale, 2009-02-09 The Novel: An Anthology of Criticism and Theory 1900-2000 is a collection of the most influential writings on the theory of the novel from the twentieth century. It traces the rise of novel theory and the extension of its influence into other disciplines especially social, cultural, and political theory. Broad in scope including sections on formalism, the Chicago School, structuralism, and narratology, deconstruction, psychoanalysis, Marxism, social discourse, gender, post colonialism, and more. Includes whole essays or chapters wherever possible. Headnotes introduce and link each piece enabling readers to draw connections between different schools of thought. Encourages students to approach theoretical texts with confidence applying the same skills they bring to literary texts. Includes a volume introduction, a selected bibliography, an index of topics, and short author biographies to support study.

Classical Hollywood Narrative Jane Gaines, 1992 An overview of film studies

The Metanarrative Hall of Mirrors Garrett Stewart, 2022-03-10 With its laser focus on the verbal and visual infrastructure of narrative, The Metanarrative Hall of Mirrors is the first sustained comparative study of how image patterns are tracked in prose and cinema. In film examples ranging from Citizen Kane through Apocalypse Now to Blade Runner 2049 then on to Christopher Nolan's 2020 Tenet, Garrett Stewart follows the shift from celluloid to digital cinema through various narrative manifestations of the image from freeze frames to computer generated special effects. By bringing cinema alongside literature, Stewart discovers a common tendency in contemporary storytelling in both prose and visual narrative: from the ongoing trend of mind game films to the often puzzling narrative eccentricities of such different writers as Nicholson Baker and Richard Powers, including the latter's eerie mirroring of reader empathy in his 2021 Bewilderment.

First-Century Gospel Storytellers and Audiences Thomas E. Boomershine, 2022-07-29 These essays explore the reconception of the Gospels as first century compositions of sound performed for audiences by storytellers rather than the anachronistic picture of a series of texts read by individual readers. The new paradigm implicit in these initial experiments is based on the recent realization that the majority of persons 85 to 95 percent were illiterate and experienced the Jesus stories as members of audiences. Either from memory or from memorized manuscripts, the evangelists performed the Gospels as an evening's entertainment of two to four hours. The audiences were predominantly addressed as Hellenistic Judeans who lived in the aftermath of the Roman Jewish war. When heard whole, the Gospels were vivid experiences of the central character of Jesus These studies of audience address and the interactions between first century storytellers and audiences reveal a dynamic performance literature that functioned as scripts for an ever expanding network of storytelling proclamations whose envisioned horizon was the whole world When the Gospels were told at one time from beginning to end they invited the listeners to move from being peripherally interested or initially opposed to Jesus to identifying themselves as disciples of Jesus and believers in him as the Messiah

Analysing Historical Narratives Stefan Berger, Nicola Brauch, Chris Lorenz, 2021-05-14 For all of the recent debates over the methods and theoretical underpinnings of the historical profession scholars and laypeople alike still frequently think of history in terms of storytelling Accordingly historians and theorists have devoted much attention to how historical narratives work illuminating the ways they can bind together events shape an argument and lend support to ideology From ancient Greece to modern day bestsellers the studies gathered here offer a wide ranging analysis of the textual strategies used by historians They show how in spite of the pursuit of truth and objectivity the ways in which historians tell their stories are inevitably conditioned by their discursive contexts
