Elie Wiesel, the Shtetl, and Post-Auschwitz Memory Christine June Wunderli, 2023-04 How are Holocaust events remembered and narrated and why What knowledge can Holocaust testimony convey Christine June Wunderli explores these questions as she examines four works by Holocaust survivor Elie Wiesel Guided by Bourdieu's theory of literary field as well as Young's theory of literary representation she traces Hasidic influences in Wiesel's writing Her conclusions are telling Wiesel's narratives are born as memory is pulled towards both Auschwitz and the shtetl caught up in the tension between the two Still the emerging trajectory is one of hope led by a new categorical imperative

WAGING WAR, MAKING PEACE American Anthropological Association. research      Perspectives On The Holocaust James S Pacy, Alan Wertheimer, 2019-06-04 This volume brings together original historical literary and philosophical analyses of the Holocaust by some of the world's leading scholars including Yehuda Bauer Christopher R Browning George Steiner Alvin H Rosenfeld Richard L Rubenstein Robert Wolfe Eberhard Jackel Peter Hayes and John K Roth The essays cover topics as diverse as      Traumatic Realism Michael Rothberg, 2000 Drawing on a wide range of texts Michael Rothberg puts forth an overarching framework for understanding representations of the Holocaust Through close readings of such writers and thinkers as Theodor Adorno Maurice Blanchot Ruth Kluger Charlotte Delbo Art Spiegelman and Philip Roth and an examination of films by Steven Spielberg and Claude Lanzmann Rothberg demonstrates how the Holocaust as a traumatic event makes three fundamental demands on representation a demand for documentation a demand for reflection on the limits of representation and a demand for engagement with the public      Textual Silence Jessica Lang, 2017-08-24 There are thousands of books that represent the Holocaust but can and should the act of reading these works convey the events of genocide to those who did not experience it In Textual Silence literary scholar Jessica Lang asserts that language itself is a barrier between the author and the reader in Holocaust texts and that this barrier is not a lack of substance but a defining characteristic of the genre Holocaust texts which encompass works as diverse as memoirs novels poems and diaries are traditionally characterized by silences the authors place throughout the text both deliberately and unconsciously While a reader may have the desire and will to comprehend the Holocaust the presence of textual silence is a force that removes the experience of genocide from the reader's analysis and imaginative recourse Lang defines silences as omissions that take many forms including the use of italics and quotation marks ellipses and blank pages in poetry and the presence of unreliable narrators in fiction While this limits the reader's ability to read in any conventional sense these silences are not flaws They are instead a critical presence that forces readers to acknowledge how words and meaning can diverge in the face of events as unimaginable as those of the Holocaust

Remembrance and Forgiveness Ajlina Karamahić-Muratović, Laura Kromjác, 2020-10-26 An enquiry into the social science of remembrance and forgiveness in global episodes of genocide and mass violence during the post Holocaust era this volume explores the ways in which remembrance and forgiveness have changed over time and how they have been used in more recent cases of genocide and mass violence With case studies from Rwanda Ethiopia South Sudan South Africa Australia Cambodia Indonesia Timor Leste Israel Palestine Argentina Guatemala El Salvador the United States Bosnia and Herzegovina and Chechnya the volume avoids a purely legal perspective to open the interpretation of post genocidal societies communities and individuals to global and interdisciplinary perspectives that consider not only forgiveness and thus social harmony but remembrance and disharmony This volume will appeal to scholars across the social sciences with interests in memory studies genocide remembrance and forgiveness      Traumatism Realism Michael Rothberg, 2000-08-10 How to approach the Holocaust and its relationship to late twentieth century society While some stress the impossibility of comprehending this event others attempt representations in forms as different as the nonfiction novel and Hollywood blockbuster Schindler's List the documentary Shoah and the comic book Maus This problem is at the center of Michael Rothberg's book a focused account of the psychic intellectual and cultural aftermath of the Holocaust Drawing on a wide range of texts Michael Rothberg puts forth an overarching framework for understanding representations of the Holocaust Through close readings of such writers and thinkers as Theodor Adorno Maurice Blanchot Ruth Kluger Charlotte Delbo Art Spiegelman and Philip Roth and an examination of films by Steven Spielberg and Claude Lanzmann Rothberg demonstrates how the Holocaust as a traumatic event makes three fundamental demands on representation a demand for documentation a demand for reflection on the limits of representation and a demand for engagement with the public sphere and commodity culture As it establishes new grounding for Holocaust studies his book provides a new understanding of realism modernism and postmodernism as responses to the demands of history

My Generation William Styron, 2015-06-02 A vital illuminating collection of the Pulitzer Prize and National Book Award winner's elegant passionately engaged nonfiction My Generation is the definitive gathering of William Styron's nonfiction exposing the core of this greatly gifted highly convivial and profoundly serious artist from his literary emergence in the 1950s to his death in 2006 Here are fifty years of Styron's essays memoirs reviews op eds articles eulogies and speeches reflecting the same brilliant style and informed thinking that he brought to his towering fiction and to a deeply committed public life Including many newly collected and never before published items this compendium ranges from the original mission statement of The Paris Review which Styron helped found in 1953 to a 2001 tribute to his friend Philip Roth creating an essential overview of arts and letters during the post World War II years In these pages Styron writes vividly of childhood days in Tidewater Virginia spent going to movies not reading books It does not mean the death of literacy or creativity if one is drenched in popular culture at an early age He recalls being among the group of soldiers who would have been sent to invade Japan and were saved by Truman's decision to drop the atomic bomb which Styron feels was the right choice even though its absolute rightness can never be proved And he writes as few others have about midlife battles with clinical depression a pain that is all but indescribable and therefore to everyone but the sufferer almost meaningless Here too are Styron's personal encounters with world leaders fellow authors and friends each of whom comes memorably to life Styron recalls sharing contraband Cuban cigars with JFK a naughty memento a conversation piece with a touch of scandal getting lost in the snow with Robert Penn Warren and party hopping with the young James Jones an experience he likens to keeping company with a Roman emperor The beginnings of his masterpieces The Confessions of Nat Turner and Sophie's Choice are chronicled here along with the controversy that greeted the former upon its 1967 publication Throughout Styron celebrates the men and women of his generation whose lives were forged in the crucible of World War II Whether he's recounting a walk with his dog musing on the Modern Library's list of the hundred best English language novels of the twentieth century or contemplating America's fraught racial legacy from his point of view as the grandson of a woman who owned slaves William Styron writes always in urgent finely calibrated prose These fascinating pieces bring readers closer to this great writer and the world he observed interacted with and changed Praise for My Generation William Styron's My Generation Collected Nonfiction is both unsurpassably charming and unflinchingly honest whether recounting the fallout from The Confessions of Nat Turner or reminiscing about the slave owning grandmother who warned him never to forget he was a Southerner Vogue At its most accomplished Styron's non fiction mixes a conscientious richly traditional prose style with a strong current of fellow feeling a certain awe at the human condition which is what gives power to his best fiction Styron stood tall in his generation and the best of him will stand up over time USA Today A must for every Styron fan's library BBC

The Crime of Destruction and the Law of Genocide Caroline Fournet, 2016-03-16 This highly original work provides a thought provoking and valuable resource for researchers and academics with an interest in genocide criminology international organizations and law and society In her book Caroline Fournet examines the law relating to genocide and explores the apparent failure of society to provide an adequate response to incidences of mass atrocity The work casts a legal perspective on this social phenomenon to show that genocide fails to be appropriately remembered due to inherent defects in the law of genocide itself The book thus connects the social response to the legal theory and practice and trials in particular Fournet's study illustrates the shortcomings of the Genocide Convention as a means of preventing and punishing genocide as well as its consequent failure to ensure the memory of this heinous crime

Darkness Visible Karlo V. Bordjadze, 2017-10-09 How does one read the Old Testament as Christian Scripture This question voiced in both academic and ecclesial settings invites a reflection on how to take these texts with both hermeneutical alertness and sustained imaginative seriousness While scholars have recently engaged in robust discussion about theological hermeneutics there have been relatively few worked examples with particular Old Testament texts This book seeks to meet this need by providing a close reading of Isaiah 14 3 23 a text with a complex amalgam of textual historical critical history of reception and theological issues
