From Source Water to Drinking Water Institute of Medicine,Board on Health Sciences Policy,Roundtable on Environmental Health Sciences, Research, and Medicine, 2004-12-01 The Institute of Medicine's Roundtable on Environmental Health Sciences Research and Medicine was established in 1988 as a mechanism for bringing the various stakeholders together to discuss environmental health issues in a neutral setting. The members of the Roundtable on Environmental Health Sciences Research and Medicine come from academia, industry, and government. Their perspectives range widely and represent the diverse viewpoints of researchers, federal officials, and consumers. They meet to discuss environmental health issues that are of mutual interest and bring others together to discuss these issues as well. For example, they regularly convene workshops to help facilitate discussion of a particular topic. The Roundtable's fifth national workshop, entitled "From Source Water to Drinking Water: Ongoing and Emerging Challenges for Public Health," continued the theme established by previous Roundtable workshops, looking at rebuilding the unity of health and the environment. This workshop summary captures the discussions and presentations by the speakers and participants who identified the areas in which additional research was needed, the processes by which changes could occur, and the gaps in our knowledge.

Academic Writing and Plagiarism

Diane Pecorari, 2015-06-21 Plagiarism has long been regarded with concern by the university community as a serious act of wrongdoing threatening core academic values. There has been a perceived increase in plagiarism over recent years due in part to issues raised by the new media, a diverse student population, and the rise in English as a lingua franca. This book examines plagiarism, the inappropriate relationship between a text and its sources, from a linguistic perspective. Diane Pecorari brings recent linguistic research to bear on plagiarism, including processes of first and second language writers, interplay between reading and writing, writer's identity and voice, and the expectations of the academic discourse community. Using empirical data drawn from a large sample of student writing compared against written sources, Academic Writing and Plagiarism argues that some plagiarism in this linguistic context can be regarded as a failure of pedagogy rather than a deliberate attempt to transgress. The book examines the implications of this gap between the institutions' expectations of the students' student performance and institutional awareness and suggests pedagogic solutions to be implemented at student, tutor, and institutional levels. Academic Writing and Plagiarism is a cutting edge research monograph which will be essential reading for researchers in applied linguistics.
